Hancock County anti-gaming, anti-business, Harvey says

"Jackson County is a lot like Hancock. Those people simply don't want any kind of gaming. Bay St. Louis is a charming, marvelous town, but it seems totally anti-casino." Paul Harvey.

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County seems anti-gaming and anti-business.

Those might be fighting words for a Board of Supervisors elected mostly on a platform pledge to run county government like a business.

But, the observation belongs to Gen. Paul Harvey, executive director of the Mississippi Gaming Commission, who draws the conclusion from the current controversy surrounding casinos wanting to come into the Bay of St. Louis.

Harvey, with his public relations chief Warren Strain, came to town last week for a no-holds-barred session he had requested with Echo reporters. The session with Harvey lasted almost two hours, and the leader of the commission that oversees and regulates gambling in the state answered a wide range of questions, with emphasis on what has happened in Hancock County and what the future might bring.

"The constant barrage of lawsuits is unfortunate. It's unfair for politics to get involved... and for judges to get involved in determining siting conditions," said Harvey.

"If there are inherent holes in the law, then it is the fault of the state legislature. Some areas of the law (regarding siting) are a little vague... but let the legislature address it," said Harvey.

The gaming chief was commenting on lawsuits that have been filed in Hancock County and another in Harrison County, each challenging gambling developments proposed in the Bay of St. Louis.

Last September, anti-gaming and environmental interests teamed together to file Chancery Court challenges to the $200 million Casino World complex planned south of Diamondhead in Hancock County and the $300 million Circus Circus development planned off the Kiln-Delisle exit of Interstate 10 in Harrison County. A similar suit has been filed against another gaming venture planned in Waveland by Jim Maness and other South beach property owners.

On Casino World, Harvey said the Commission ruled twice that it is a legal site, although he admitted preliminary plans submitted by developers didn't specifically address environmental concerns. "We'll want to look at that more if they get over the court hurdle," said Harvey.

Abandoned vehicles to be towed

BY ED LEPOMA

If you have an abandoned vehicle or boat in Hancock County, you have five days after they're tagged to remove them.

Supervisors asked the media to get out the word last week after a bewildered Bay-side Park resident came to them to complain about his truck and trailer being towed away on orders of the Hancock County Sheriff's Office.

Brian Daley said he was on vacation in Nebraska when the vehicles were towed and claimed nobody tried to notify him.

Supervisors sympathized with Daley, but said they have instructed the sheriff's office to begin enforcing state law with regard to abandoned vehicles. They said the abandoned vehicles impede road crews trying to clear right-of-ways and ditches and crews working to beautify the beachfront.

Board President Philip Moran said, "We didn't single you out. The message we are trying to get out is if you have an abandoned vehicle on the road (or a boat on the beach) you've got to move it or it will be towed."

Under the law, the sheriff's office posts a notice on the abandoned vehicles, and gives the owner five days to remove it. If the vehicle is not moved

Local artist Andrea Loiacano

Loiacano painting success story

BY BETSY GAGNET

Success has come to local artist Andrea Loiacano and no one is more pleasantly surprised than the artist herself.

A graduate in fine arts from William Carey College, the Bay St. Louis native sold her first piece at her "Senior Showing" in the college's Sarah Gillespie Gallery.

"I didn't expect to sell my stuff," Loiacano said. "My family owns a health club (Loiacano Health Club) and all through college I just thought that I would go to work for them."

Loiacano said her timing was lucky, graduating just as the artistic community in Bay St. Louis began to develop.

"I have been fortunate with patronage of people in the community who have bought my work," she said. "It has encouraged me to continue."

Perhaps her best known work is "Cajun Maid", depicting the Pass Christian Harbor.

Originally shown at Place of Art IV, the painting created such good response that Wedding attracts 'Dracula, Cinderella'

BY ED LEPOMA

Ghosts and goblins gathered on Bayou La Croix on Halloween to celebrate the marriage of two kindred spirits.

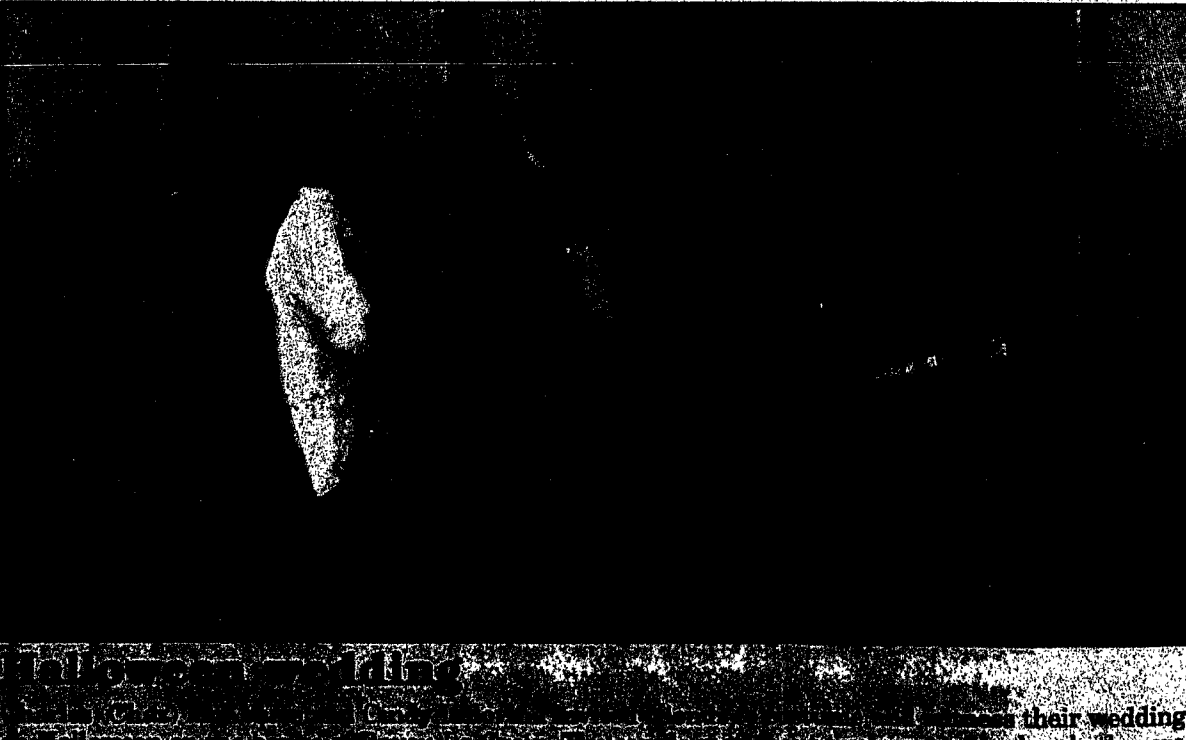

Dressed like a dead rock star, Charles (Chaz) McKenzie married Cindy Indovina, outfitted as a victim of the ill-fated Titanic.

Family and friends, also attired in various costumes, witnessed the ceremony performed by Justice Court Judge Joe DeBaton on the shores of Bayou La Croix at the evening sun setting in the western sky.

casino barge, started dating seriously last January, and decided to tie the knot on Halloween.

"It's the third wedding for both of us, and we weren't going to let anything stop this wedding," said Chaz. He now works as a dealer for the Copa Casino in Gulfport, and Cindy is a chef for Vincent's Restaurant in Waveland.

The costumed guests consisted of the best man, dressed in a high-tech Dracula costume, and the maid of honor, dressed in a black and white costume.

Charles McKenzie and Cindy Indovina celebrated their wedding on Halloween at Bayou La Croix.

Concerts to mark Vets Day weekend

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
A concert by the Pearl River Junior College Band and one by the Bay High Band will mark Veterans Day celebrations in Hancock County.

A concert will be held at the Bay Flag Memorial on Sat., Nov. 9 and an open house concert on Mon., Nov. 11, Veterans Day at the Waveland American Legion home.

Gene Schlögel, VFW Post 3253 commander and American Legion Post 139 public relations officer said, "We want to place emphasis on patriotism and show our veterans how we appreciate what they have given for the freedoms we have in our country."

Both Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre and Waveland Mayor John Mason are issuing proclamations requesting individuals, schools, churches, organizations, business establishments and residents to display American flags on Veterans Day, Monday, Nov. 11.

On Saturday, Nov. 9, at 10 a.m. at the Bay Flag Memorial,

U.S. Highway 90, in front of Hancock Medical Center, a concert will be given by the Bay High Band under the direction of Cathie Crider.

Waveland American Legion Post 77 is sponsoring an open house concert by the Pearl River Community College band on Veterans Day, Nov. 11 at 11 a.m. A special speaker from Keesler Air Force Base will give the Veterans Day address.

The Saturday concert will include the Bay High JROTC rifle unit presenting a routine. Opening of the program will be by Waveland Mayor Mason singing the National Anthem during the "To the Colors" flag raising.

Special awards will be presented to select POWs of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3253 by VFW State Commander Fred Scarborough and John Wilkerson, American Legion Ninth District Committeeman during the special ceremonies.

Color guards will perform from American Legion Post No. 139 and Auxiliary, VFW Post 3253 and Auxiliary, Disabled Veterans; Bay-Waveland Elks; Boys Scouts Troops, sponsored by Legion Post 77 and 139; Mississippi National Guardsmen; City of Bay St. Louis; and Bay High JROTC.

American flags will be distributed by Miss Poppy, Jr. Miss Poppy and Boy Scouts to those in attendance.

The public is invited to both concerts, and those attending the Walking Track Pops Lawn Concert are asked to bring lawn chairs or blanket.

The Veterans Day open house concert takes the place of the annual parade sponsored by the Bay St. Louis and Waveland American Legion Posts.

Refreshments will follow the concert on Veterans Day and will be served by Post 77's Auxiliary members.

Large special occasion American flags will be displayed over the weekend at the Bay Flag Memorial.

Schlögel said, "It is hoped that the weekend programs will give honor and appreciation to all our military veterans of Hancock County who served our country in both war and peace."

Pass financial probation ends

BY ED LEPOMA
Pass Christian has been officially notified that the state auditor's department has lifted the cloud the city has been under since 1994 because of cash reserve shortages.

Mayor Billy McDonald released to the media recently a copy of a letter sent to him and the Board of Aldermen by William S. Jones, Director of Special Projects for the state auditor's office.

Jones thanked the mayor for courtesies shown Devon Townsend of the audit staff, who recently reviewed city books for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1996.

"His review of the financial statements for the calendar year 1996 demonstrates the strong improvement Pass Christian has made since 1994 in its financial position," said

Jones. "Each member of the city's leadership and administration are to be congratulated for the determination and common-sense approach to city government shown over the last two years."

Townsend informed the mayor and aldermen, "I am pleased to tell you the office of the State Auditor no longer considers Pass Christian to be in a probationary status. It goes without saying, however, that only constant vigilance can maintain the city's improvement."

McDonald credited the turnaround to belt-tightening in all areas of government, and to centralizing purchasing procedures.

Kiln couple arrested; charged in robberies

BY ED LEPOMA
Hancock County Sheriff's deputies have arrested a couple, charging them in a rash of burglaries that occurred in the rural Kiln community over the last two weeks.

Chief Deputy Nathan Hoda

credited the help of concerned citizens for aiding in the investigation.

Arrested and taken into custody last Wednesday night were Ernest Guyton, 18, and Vina Stubbs, 23, both of the Kiln area. Bond for each was set at $20,000.

Hoda said the couple was charged with seven counts of burglary that occurred at a Baptist Church, the pastor's home, the Broke Spoke Bar, the Kiln VFW and a beauty shop.

He said speakers, a VCR and other items were recovered.

Detective George Burleson is in charge of the case, and was assisted by deputy Corky Hoda.

Christmas decoration contest

Merchants interested in the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce decoration contest must register by Nov. 15. The businesses must be decorated by Nov. 22.

Winners will be announced Dec. 3 following the Chamber's annual Christmas parade. Winners will be chosen from Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the county. An overall winner will also be announced.

It was also revealed the Clydesdales parade is scheduled for Dec. 20 at 6 p.m. in Bay St. Louis.

Book signing

Sherie D. Schadler, Hancock County children's author, held a book signing and puppet show at the Bookends, Bay St. Louis last Saturday. Schadler's book, titled Welcome to Bayou Town, was illustrated by Vicksburg native Ann Biedenbarn Jones. Schadler has a number of book signings scheduled through the end of the year in a number of Mississippi and Louisiana towns. Schadler will have another puppet show and book signing at the City-County Library Nov. 20 in celebration of National Children's Book Week. (Echo staff photo by Ellis C. Cuevas)

"CUEVAS" QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Tuesday is the big election day for Americans. It is very important that all qualified electors go the polls and vote for the candidates of their choice.

It would be a good idea for residents to check with their neighbors on election day and make sure they have a way to the polls.

We live in a very mobile nation, yet there are still many who do not have transportation for one reason or another.

All votes do count, and many important elections have been won by just one vote.

So, remember to get out and vote on Tuesday.

Next Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. a very important benefit spaghetti dinner will be held for Carlos Arnold Sr.

The benefit will take place at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Main Street, Bay St. Louis. The dinners are for a donation of $5 per plate.

Carlos, whom I have known since we were youngsters, has received an artificial heart and awaits a heart transplant.

He has 11 children and numerous grandchildren and worked at the Stennis Space Center for 20 years. He retired on disability in December, 1995.

He had been actively connected with the Boy Scouts of America for some 45 years and involved in many civic organizations such as the Jaycees, American Legion, Elks, Waveland Civic Association, etc.

Carlos is now living on a LVAD (Left Ventricular Assist Device) since Sept. 96 and has been confined flat on his back for some 70 days at Ochsner Foundation Hospital. He is now on the Rehab floor for extensive physical therapy or until a heart becomes available.

A benefit fund for Arnold has been set up at Merchants Bank. Account number 722 6624, in case you may want to make a contribution.

We are hoping and praying that a heart will be found for Carlos, and that he will once again be among us in the community.

Buying a ticket for the spaghetti dinner will help greatly.

Take-outs will be available, drive-through the parking lot!

The weather really cooperated with Halloween activities in our area, as Thursday was a beautiful day. I hope everyone had a good time on Halloween night and had a great time.

It was good to see the number of people who visited us in the cemetery.

A Hope Haven benefit will be held this afternoon from 3 to 7 p.m. at the Waveland Holiday Inn pool side. There will be roast pig and Cajun dancing. Admission is for a donation of $20 each.

Tickets are available at C&M's Olde Town II and Carole's Old Town Restaurant.

The roast pig dinner sounds very good.

These days, there are more good reasons than ever to join the bandwagon of United Way supporters.

Reaching those who need help. Touching us all. ☺

Saving high school dropouts

Almost every year, over 10,000 young people drop out of Mississippi high schools. This is a tragic waste of talent and potential. Even worse is the fact that around half of those who drop out of high school end up in prison. A brighter future, it is also the key to preventing a darker life of crime.

One program dealing with such "at risk" kids and trying to put them back on the right road is the Mississippi National Guard Youth Challenge Program. For the past three years, high school dropouts have been coming to Camp Shelby in Hattiesburg and finding out that there is a better future waiting for them. Mississippi is just one of about 15 states with such a program, and I think it is one worth keeping.

So far, the Youth Challenge Program has graduated about 750 teenagers. Of that number, 78 percent have earned their GED, and less than one percent have gone on to get in trouble with the law. By comparison, 87 percent of the inmates in Mississippi's prisons are high school dropouts. That Youth Challenge is able to steer young people away from the pitfall of illegal activities is a testament to its success.

Youth Challenge was created by Congress in 1993 in the Defense Authorization Act. It was designed as a pilot program to determine if the life skills and employment potential of youths who drop out of secondary school can be significantly improved through military-based training. This training includes supervised work experience in community service and conservation projects. Such projects help teach at-risk kids the values they need to become productive either in school or at work.

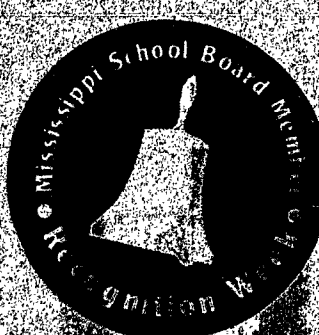

Youth Challenge is open to 16-18-year-old high school dropouts. It is strictly a voluntary program and is not open to those with criminal records. Participants must be drug-free and have to pass a counseling interview. Over about five months, those accepted into the program are helped by members of the National Guard to develop pride and respect, and to improve their academic skills.

The average cost for a teenager to go through Youth Challenge is about $12,000. This seems like a tremendous amount of money until you consider the fact that the national average cost for a teenager to go through the criminal justice system is $28,000 a year. If Youth Challenge is able to have a positive effect on its participants and turn them into tax paying citizens, in just a few years they will have paid back what it cost to put them through the program.

I like the Youth Challenge Program because it is not a typical federal solution to the dropout problem. It employs tried and true military methods for building upstanding young men and women, instead of the latest pop psychology. Unfortunately, the National Guard Youth Challenge is facing the budgetary axe after next year. I am hopeful Congress will be able to find a way to preserve this valuable service which is turning around the lives of so many young people.

Celebrating a Commitment to Children

Let's take time to thank our school board members for their commitment to Mississippi's public school children. From ensuring safe transportation for children to improving technology in our classrooms, school board members are the backbone of our public education system.

Stop, look and listen

The political season is in full swing, and there are only a few days to go before serious and important choices must be made on Election Day 1996. Qualified voters will elect the senators, congressmen and congresswomen who will determine the direction and destiny of our nation for the rest of this century and into the 21st century.

Each of us, as veterans and American citizens, has the obligation to "quicken the spirit of American patriotism" by exercising the most envied and sought-after right in the entire world — our right to freely and openly cast our ballot for the candidates of our choice in a free election.

Our right to cast the ballot, as with any other important right, presents us with an equal and important obligation to know as much as we can about what the candidates stand for and what they say they will do when they are in office.

Therefore, I urge you and your family to seek out and support those candidates who demonstrate what they believe in, and will uphold our First Amendment right, as citizens and veterans, to meet peacefully with persons of our own choosing.

Also, support those candidates who will support legislation seeking a constitutional amendment to prevent the desecration of our nation's flag.

Just remember, if you and yours don't thoughtfully and carefully exercise your right to vote, you have no one to blame but yourselves if you don't like the way things go after Jan. 1.

Stop, look each candidate over carefully, listen closely to what they are saying, and then cast that vote for the candidates you believe offer you and your family the best for the future. You can then stop for a moment to thank God that we live in a nation that permits us to exercise a free and clear choice.

Local tourism taxes take a bite

McDonald's Happy Meals are putting smiles on the faces of a number of city and county officials, but it isn't the food. It's the taxes.

And the smile on the motel desk clerk's face is duplicated in many local government offices. It's the taxes.

Twenty-nine Mississippi cities and counties collect extra sales taxes from customers who purchase restaurant food and drinks. The average rate is 1.44 percent. In August, the total collected was $1,449,875. Multiply that times 12 months and $17.4 million has moved from citizen pockets to government coffers.

Mississippi allows local governments to collect additional sales taxes from "tourists" to fund economic development or promotions to attract visitors. The reality is that the governments are taxing visitors and locals alike. When a surcharge is added to the restaurant bill, both pay the tab.

What is the money used for? Some fund visitor promotions departments and others use it for a variety of projects which are sheltered under the broad "economic development" umbrella. Four-color brochures, pamphlets and other materials are often purchased.

It's easy to gain legislative authority to levy the taxes. City or county officials simply need to adopt a resolution asking the legislature to pass local and state legislation. Because it's local legislation and local authorities are asking for the authority to tax their own citizens, lawmakers usually rubber stamp the project.

Local officials like it because it provides significant funds and rarely is there a public protest. But isn't it ironic that we're making the customer pay more so we can attract more customers. Huh?

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

"I don't know why or by whom my son was killed. All I want is to get rid of the hatred which brought this about."

Mama Brenda Harris spoke for herself and her husband, Oliver Jr., maintaining their faith in God and their composure during their time of greatest sorrow and distress. Their faith and peace were incredible to behold.

Leaving a fire-ravaged home where they lived a scant two weeks before, they moved to New Orleans East. Just when they thought they were settled, John, their youngest, did not return home that Friday night, triggering deep anxiety.

The next day they contacted the police, then called the morgue. "We have no John Doe," the morgue answered, not intending a pun on the child's first name.

After more painful hours of hand-wringing, one of John's brothers went to the morgue and eventually identified his body. Shot near the chin with the bullet lodging in his brain, he had fought for life for 24 hours in the hospital. At six-foot-three, John was the tallest as well as youngest of the four brothers, a lean, hard athlete who excelled in basketball and swimming. In fact, two of his swimming records set at Carver High School still remain unbroken.

More importantly, John was involved with less gifted students, tutoring them whenever the need arose. It happened frequently that a grateful, very impressed student would tell him: "You should be my teacher, not my tutor."

John was not perfect, of course. After all, he was a 16-year-old picking his way through the pitfalls and minefields of the obstacle course of life.

However, quite pointedly, he was very much the kind of human being we desire so ardently and strive so deeperately for our children to become. And just when we have a shining model in our midst, the forces of evil close in and destroy.

God forgive us for feeling rather relieved when some from our midst meet an untimely end. You know I am speaking about the ruthless drug smugglers and dealers. There is nary a tear shed for these primary poisoners of the wellsprings of youth.

Neither is there usually much grief among us when criminals, street gang members, drug users and sundry street scoundrels come to an ungodly, violent end. Although they need our help, they put us through a living hell on earth.

Our anguish, sorrow, grief, frustration and deep anger surface when a youth role model falls at the hands of crime merchants who have nothing better to do than trash and destroy the hopeful, promising sprouts of youth.

During the celebration of the Mass of Resurrection, numb fellow students were for the most part mute witnesses to the character of John Harris. Their pained faces, rapt attention, yet robot-like participation spelled a defining moment.

As in the case of mama Brenda, papa Oliver Jr. and sons Oliver II, Henry and Clarence, a defining moment of grace peeped through the suffocating clouds of trauma, grief and agonizing loss of a rare treasure.

"We know that all things work for good for those who love God" (Rom. 8: 28). The faithful mouth of Oliver Jr. and Brenda, the pained peace of their sons, and the reverend memory of John gives hope that more youth will be drawn to God.

COOKING UP A STORM

Mousse

Our family's newest bride and bridegroom, Bill and Beth McGuire, are busy settling into their newly-purchased home in Charleston, S.C., following their recent wedding in Mandeville, La. Bill, my eldest grandson, is one of six fine young men who are the delight of this grandma's heart; you may be sure! Our family has long loved the Carolinas, and both Bill and his brother Brian had chosen Coastal Carolina College at Myrtle Beach, S.C., for their undergraduate studies and The University of South Carolina in Columbia for their graduate studies. And both completed the Carolina connection by choosing lovely Carolina ladies as their brides!

Brian and Molly were married in April in Columbia and Bill and Beth in August in Mandeville, where Bill and Roi, along with Jack and Sue and their four sons, reside. The latter's two older sons couldn't be with us, as our Navy man Shannon and his wife Susan couldn't make it, and Barrett was in Bosnia on special duty with the Louisiana Air National Guard Reserve. Their two younger sons, David and Holland, were on hand for the festivities, although David is now back at the books at USM, and Holland has started his freshman year at Auburn. Barrett, home from his travels, is a student at Southeastern Louisiana University. Keeps me busy trying to keep up with all of them!

Back to the wedding and reception — a large group came down from South Carolina to join in the festivities; and I can't remember when I've met a more delightful and more interesting group of young men and women. It was truly a wonderful time for all!

The pecan orchard and grounds of Benedict's Plantation in Mandeville were the setting for the ceremony and reception, and quite a lovely setting it was. And, the refreshments were more than delectable, including one of my favorite appetizer dishes at Benedict's, a salmon mousse, and also a shrimp mousse. I didn't get the recipe, although when I go to Benedict's I always mean to do so: Here is my easy-easy version:

SORT-OF-SHIRLEY'S SALMON OR SHRIMP MOUSSE FROM BENEDICT'S

- 1 cup shrimp or salmon, cooked and cut up
- 1 can tomato soup (undiluted)
- 3 small packages Philadelphia cream cheese
- 2 Tbsp. unflavored gelatin
- 3/4 cup celery, finely chopped
- 3/4 cup bell (green) pepper, finely chopped
- 2 Tbsp. grated onion
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- Splash of hot pepper sauce, to your taste and tolerance

Mash the cream cheese, and add to the soup. Heat in a double boiler, stirring until the cream cheese is melted and quite hot. Meanwhile, soak the gelatin in a cup of water for five minutes and add the salmon or shrimp, along with the celery, green pepper, onion and pepper, salt (if using) and hot pepper sauce.

Pour into an oiled mold and refrigerate for several hours. Turn out on a platter on a bed of lettuce and garnish with pitted ripe and green olives.

Serve the mayonnaise separately. I like to add a dash of Creole mustard to the mayonnaise, along with finely chopped parsley and green onions. Serve with crisp crackers or melba toast.

Blood pressure screenings

Professional Home Health will hold free blood pressure screenings at Wal-Mart in Waveland Friday, Nov. 1, 9:30-11:30 a.m. and at the Hancock County Senior Citizens Center on Wednesday, Nov. 20, 9-10 a.m.

Informational handouts will also be at each screening. For information, call the Pass Christian office at 452-2997.

Some folks will say it doesn't matter what party your Congressman belongs to. But it really does matter, and here's why.

Control of our Congress is given to the party that has the most members. The Speaker of the House, all committee and subcommittee chairmen are appointed by the political party that maintains a majority.

Right now, majority control is safely in the hands of Republicans. But a few seats could turn it back over to the Democrats.

A vote to elect a Democrat to Congress is a vote to help return control of Congress to the National Democratic Party. Here are just a few of the liberal Democrats who will control important committees if that happens:

DAVID BONIOR

The Detroit News called him "one of the last true liberals." If the Democrats win back control of Congress, Bonior will be the new Majority Leader.

BARNEY FRANK

An openly gay Democrat, Frank would be Chairman of the Constitution Subcommittee. He supports special rights for gays, and has fought to allow alternative lifestyles in our communities.

JOHN CONYERS

Conyers has amassed "one of the most liberal voting records in Congress" according to Time magazine (9/30/96). If Democrats win back the Congress, Conyers will be Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, which oversees important issues like school prayer.

CHARLES SCHUMER

Known around Washington as "Mr. Gun Control," Schumer is perhaps the strongest gun-control advocate in Congress. If the Democrats take over, this New York City liberal will head up the Judiciary Subcommittee on Crime.

RON DELLUMS

In a Democrat-controlled Congress, Dellums would chair the National Security Committee. An opponent of both the U.S. invasion of Grenada and Operation Desert Storm, Dellums is "a product of the radical politics of the late 1960s" (Almanac of American Politics, 1996).

FORTNEY STARK

Stark would head the Health Subcommittee, which oversees healthcare in America. His plan to save Medicare included "higher Medicare taxes as you go, high co-payment when you get there" (CNN, 6/5/96).

JOHN DINGELL

An unabashed liberal, Dingell will head up the Commerce Committee, which oversees American business. According to Time magazine (9/30/96), "[Dingell] can be counted on to fight for more government regulation of business."

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER IV

Rockefeller will chair the Committee on Medicare, Long-Term Care and Health Insurance. He has promised to "push through healthcare reform regardless of the views of the American people" (Almanac of American Politics, 1996).

Don't let liberal Democrats win back control of Congress. Vote Republican.

We DON'T Believe In Negative Politics! However, We DO Believe In Telling The Truth & Presenting The Facts...

50 REASONS GENE TAYLOR SHOULD NOT RETURN TO CONGRESS

1. Listed as one of the Top House Travelers. Last year Taylor took 3 trips that lasted over 9 days and went to 8 countries. (National Journal's Congress Daily p. 5 March 21, 1996.)
2. Contrary to his T.V. Ads, Gene Taylor has NO seniority. He is number 32 of 33 Democrats on the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee. Two freshman Democrats have more seniority than Gene Taylor.
3. In 1991 Taylor said he supported middle-income tax relief (Gannett News Service, December 19, 1991) yet in 1996 he voted against a $500 per child tax credit. (HR 1215, 4/5/95)
4. Gene Taylor voted against the Welfare Reform bill which would cap the amount of time recipients could be on welfare. (Vote #269, 3/24/95)
5. He voted against allowing our Desert Storm troops free mail. Instead he kept the money for his own mailings. (Vote #333, 9/17/90)
6. He voted against a plan to cut funds for elevator operators who run Congress's AUTOMATIC elevators. (Vote #414, 6/22/95)
7. He voted against making Congress live under the Family and Medical Leave Act which says all employees have the right to go to court if they feel their rights have been violated. (Vote #21, 2/3/93)
8. Gene Taylor voted against limiting the terms of House Committee Chairman and the Speaker. (Vote #8, 1/4/95)
9. Gene Taylor voted against cutting the funding for Congressional Committees by 25%. (Vote #120, 3/30/93)
10. He voted against allowing states to require proof of U.S. citizenship in order to register to vote. (Vote #153, 5/5/93)
11. He voted for an amendment which would expand the definition of wetlands and establish a new government commission to develop a national wetlands policy. (Vote #332, 5/16/95)
12. Gene Taylor voted against sending our troops to fight in Operation Desert Storm. (Vote #9, 1/12/91)
13. Gene Taylor has NO seniority. After 7 years in Congress he has yet to be a Chairman or Vice-Chairman of a Committee or of any subcommittee. Now that he is in the minority he is not even a Ranking Minority Member on any committee or subcommittee.
14. He voted to allow more political activity by federal employees. (Vote #52, 3/3/93)
15. With 22% of federal prison inmates being illegal aliens, Gene Taylor voted twice against an additional $60 million for U.S. Border Patrols. (Vote #318, 7/1/93 & Vote #342, 7/20/93)
16. He wanted to allow federal funds for clean needles and syringes for drug addicts. (Vote #150, 5/28/92)
17. Gene Taylor is one of the Top 100 Spenders in the United States House of Representatives according to the National Taxpayers Union. The National Taxpayers Union ranks every U.S. Congressman on the amount of money they sponsor every year in spending bills.
18. Gene Taylor sponsored more spending bills than big liberal spenders Patricia Schroeder, Dick Gephardt, or Kweisi Mfume. (National Taxpayers Union)
19. He voted against cutting $200 million from the Treasury and Postal Service spending bill which would affect the Office of the President but not law enforcement. (Vote #259, 6/22/93)
20. Gene Taylor voted for a $15 million parking garage to be built in Newark, New Jersey. (Vote #260, 7/1/92)
21. Gene Taylor voted for a $2.8 million feasibility study for a $1.7 billion waterway project the Army Corps of Engineers call marginal at best. (Vote #198, 6/17/92)
22. Gene Taylor voted for a $750,000 ferryboat for American Samoa. (Vote #140, 5/24/90)
23. Gene Taylor was a participant in the U.S. House Post Office Check Bouncing Scheme. He told voters he was not a part of the scheme at first, but later admitted to it saying "I'm one of the people on the list." (The Sun Herald, 3/28/92)
24. Prior to admitting his participation in the Check Bouncing Scheme, Gene Taylor voted against a motion to create a bipartisan select committee to investigate allegations of wrongdoing at the House Post Office. (Vote #7, 2/5/92)
25. Gene Taylor voted against the 1995 Farm Bill which allows farmers more flexibility to grow crops and to sell on the world market. (Vote #272, 7/20/95)
26. Taylor voted to place U.S. troops under United Nations command. (Vote #225, 6/9/94)
27. He twice voted for a Bill Clinton budget with Social Security tax increases at $32,000 earnings per couple (Vote #199, 5/27/93) and one at $44,000 earnings per couple (Vote #408, 8/5/93)
28. Gene Taylor voted against lowering the capital gains tax rate from 28% to 19.8% (HR 1215, 4/5/95)
29. Gene Taylor voted against easing of the "marriage penalty." (HR 1215, 4/5/95)
30. Gene Taylor voted to keep the 1993 Bill Clinton tax increase on Social Security benefits. (Vote #295, 4/5/95)
31. Gene Taylor voted against allowing the re-establishment of the tax deferred IRA program. (HR 1215, 4/5/95)
32. Gene Taylor voted against a bill that would restrict the ability of federal agencies to declare wetlands off-limits to development. (HR 961, 5/16/95)
33. Gene Taylor voted against a requirement that the federal government reimburse landowners if wetlands regulations caused a 20% decrease in land value. (Vote #337, 5/16/95)
34. Gene Taylor voted against common sense measures to allow farmers better insect control and ease restrictions on crop growth. (Vote #599, 7/28/95)

State Supreme Court rated on jobs issues

Mississippi's nine Supreme Court Justices received a report card. Only two justices got high marks. The other seven had poor grades when measured on decisions that were positive for growth and protection of jobs in the state.

A national legal research organization, Citizens for Judicial Review (CJR) based in Tulsa, Okla., produced the grades by checking 10 years of high court decisions. They applied research methods used with judicial studies in Texas, Ohio, Oklahoma and several southern states.

Negative performance from a jobs point of view, according to the CJR report, was turned in by Justices Chuck McRae, Michael Sullivan, Fred Banks and Ed Pittman. Top grades for helping create jobs were posted by Justices Jim Smith and Mike Mills.

Sam Hammons, an Oklahoma City attorney and CJR's senior researcher, said it is the first time that a complete numerical score or rating has been given to these senior elected judges. "Rulings by judges definitely impact the business climate of Mississippi," Hammons said.

"Some will say judges shouldn't be evaluated like other elected officials. However, justices interpret the law in ways which can either help or hurt the creation of jobs. We were hired to produce this report so Mississippians can be better informed," he added.

This first-of-its-kind rating of Mississippi's Supreme Court Justices was commissioned by Business and Industry Political Education Committee, Mississippi State Medical Association, Mississippi Manufacturers Association and Mississippi Hospital Association. They represent several thousand employers who hire over 680,000 Mississippi workers.

"These justices work for the people of Mississippi. Their decisions can easily cause jobs to go to other states. Other elected officials get report cards and it's time for Mississippians to see a report card on the Supreme Court," said BIPEC President Dick Wilcox.

"Mississippi attorneys who specialize in key areas provided essential local insights that ensured fairness and accuracy," Wilcox noted.

He added, "The performance of Supreme Court Justices has been in the dark and it's time to turn on the light. It's clear that the Court is tilted against those who would create jobs."

Wilcox noted that seven of nine justices rated below the 50 percent performance level. CJR officials said high performance numbers indicate a justice applies the law to recognize long-standing principles of free enterprise and small business ownership that protect jobs.

"They are elected to Supreme Court seats and voters want to know how these lawyers perform. When you have a Mississippi job, you want to know what these judges are doing to help you keep it," Wilcox added. "Several judges are running jobs away from Mississippi."

Recently, judicial elections have attracted greater attention from the non-legal sectors of the economy. According to sponsors of this evaluation project, the report card serves as a guide to everyone who wants a signal on Supreme Court performance.

Summary scores reported on the nine justices are:

JOBS POSITIVE

Jim Smith 56%

Mike Mills 54%

JOBS NEGATIVE

James Roberts 49%

Lenore Prather 47%

Dan Lee 42%

Ed Pittman 40%

Fred Banks 33%

Michael Sullivan 27%

Chuck McRae 13%

In addition to an overall evaluation of each justice, the study shows how each justice performed in eight major areas that are important to economic growth and business expansion. Taxation, worker's compensation, employment laws, medical malpractice and other liability lawsuits were key areas reviewed by the national research group.

"We expect some loud yells about their grades. Poor performers will always try to put the monkey on someone else's back," Wilcox commented.

Volunteer tax preparers needed

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), in cooperation with the IRS, provides free tax aid help for shut-ins, low income persons, senior citizens and others in filing their basic forms of state and federal income tax returns.

The AARP Tax Aide Program is currently seeking volunteers to serve as Tax Aide counselors next year. These volunteers will serve four hours a week from Feb. 1 to April 15 at the AARP office in the community where they live.

Counselors training will be provided, free of charge, at various times and locations throughout Mississippi next January. The instructors are certified by the IRS.

Persons interested in becoming a tax aide counselor are urged to call the MS Tax Aide Information phone service, toll-free, at 1-800-338-3167 Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m. for information, or contact George Martin, 3149 Sound View Drive, Gautier, MS 39553 (601) 497-5364.

USM to assist Navy operations

A University of Southern Mississippi marine science research team is studying water clarity with the help of a $55,000 grant from the Department of the Navy.

The research focuses on the effects of phytoplankton on water visibility in coastal regions, according to Dr. Denis Wiesenburg, associate professor of marine science at Stennis and principal investigator for the project. Microscopic plants called phytoplankton are the primary producer of grass in the ocean, according to Wiesenburg, and they are most prevalent in coastal regions.

Large amounts of phytoplankton causes water to become cloudy with particles, a condition known as turbidity. The Navy uses satellite photos to determine its operational interests, and hopes the research conducted by USM will help "interpret" the images by predicting the clarity of the water in coastal regions.

"We're working on a way to collect information to develop an equation for translating information from satellite to the ocean," Wiesenburg said.

The USM research team, composed of graduate student Juli Dixon and research associate Merritt Tuel, recently studies the water conditions in a cruise off the coast of Chesapeake Bay.

Closer to home, Dixon and Tuel also have studied conditions in the Gulf of Mexico, giving them information from a variety of areas from which to draw.

In addition to helping the Navy, the project also is an important component of the USM marine science academic program, Wiesenburg said.

"Our research program is an important component of our program in marine science," he said. "We both train students in Oceanography and provide the scientific basis for understanding the relationship between satellite data and sea surface measurement."

USM grad studying with laureate

A 1992 University of Southern Mississippi graduate studying under a newly named Nobel laureate credits his USM education with laying a firm foundation for his research today.

USM alumnus Barry I. Barker, originally from Long Beach, now is a doctoral candidate at Stanford University — working closely with Dr. Douglas C. Osheroff, who was named Oct. 9 as one of three U.S. scientists to win the Nobel Prize for physics.

"Doug has always been regarded as one of the world's best experimental physicists," Barker said Oct. 11 from Osheroff's lab in Palo Alto, Calif. "For me, just the opportunity to work with him is an incredible experience. To do the same caliber of research gives me a great feeling of opportunity."

Osheroff was a Cornell University doctoral student in the 1970s when he conducted research that won the physics prize; he shares with two professors at the New York school. They were recognized for finding that, at temperatures within two-thousandths of a degree of absolute zero, the isotope helium-3 can be made to flow without slowing down — a phenomenon known as superfluidity. The trio shares $1.2 million with three chemistry Nobel winners.

Barker's research, which should lead to his doctorate in late 1997 or early 1998, is an extension of Osheroff's work with helium-3. Barker's doctoral experiment focuses on the magnetic properties of the isotope at ultra-low temperatures.

"All of the work that we do, including the Nobel Prize work, is fundamental research in that it's not the kind that's going to have a direct economic benefit," said Barker, 26, the son of Kenneth and Anita Barker of Long Beach. "But what it does do is it pushes out the frontiers of science and the understanding that we have of the world. Our hope is . . . we can use this knowledge to understand other physical systems that are economically viable."

For instance, research by Osheroff's research team could lead to advancements in superconductors, thus reducing the cost of electricity. "The thing is that most of the breath-taking discoveries start out as fundamental research," Barker said.

Barker said his undergraduate physics professors and others at USM, particularly in the Honors College, prepared him well for working in what's considered the nation's most prestigious physics program. "The Honors College was a big bonus for me," he said.

Although recruited by several colleges as a top 1988 graduate of Long Beach High School, Barker said he chose USM largely because of the Honors College and the "great personal interest shown in me" by USM's physics faculty.

"I felt like the personal attention would help a great deal in my understanding of physics and further my career into getting into a good graduate school," he said. He also found at USM the opportunity to do meaningful research, even as an undergraduate.

Dr. Grayson Rayborn, a USM physics professor, worked with Barker to get the undergraduate's first research article published in the American Journal of Physics in 1991.

"To get a referred paper accepted while you're still a junior is quite unusual," said Rayborn, also director of USM's School of Mathematical Sciences. "It's nice to know that USM produces students who go on to the best schools to work with the best teachers there."

Barker said he also enjoyed the broad education he received through USM's Honors College, which seeks to provide the atmosphere of a liberal arts college with smaller classes and an enhanced curriculum. He was among a handful of Presidential Scholars chosen from among the Honors College's entering class in 1988. As a Presidential Scholar, Barker received one of USM's most valuable scholarships — covering tuition, room and board for eight semesters.

Barker particularly remembered the colloquium required of all Honors College participants — which combined classes in history, religion, philosophy and literature. "That has proven to be one of the things that I do appreciate a great deal about the Honors College," he said. "Coming here and talking to students at Stanford, I feel like I received an education on par with a lot of the most prestigious schools in the nation."

Barker, who got USM bachelor's degrees in both physics and math, looks forward to more challenging research

Taking A Stand On The Tough Issues

As one of this state's proven legislative and business leaders, Dennis Dollar gets things done. He is as comfortable in a boardroom selling jobs for Mississippians as he is after work coaching his son's "little league ball team."

At age 22, he was elected Mississippi's youngest Representative. Serving on the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, he was a leader in the fight for lower taxes and cutting down the number of state agencies.

He wrote and passed some of our state's most historic legislation. His Open Meetings Law and his Public Records Act brought government out from behind closed doors and gave it back to the people of Mississippi.

His strong values led him to write Mississippi's first law against child pornography. And his DUI bill in 1983 was the first real step toward making our streets and highways safer.

Today, as a successful business leader and community volunteer, Dennis Dollar is concerned about where our country is headed. He sees the arrogance in Washington and understands what common sense values and better leadership could bring to America and South Mississippi.

Because, now more than ever we need a leader who gets things done.

PAID FOR BY THE HANCOCK COUNTY REPUBLICAN PARTY, DR. A.K. MARTINOLICH, CHAIRMAN, AUTHORIZED BY THE DENNIS DOLLAR FOR CONGRESS COMMITTEE.

10A THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1996

Venturi says

On his outlook for the Saints for the next eight games — "This team has won two of the last three games. I approach the last eight weeks with optimism and with commitment."

His confidence in what he can offer — "I've always prided myself in being the kind of person that whatever the operation asked me to do, whether it was painting the walls or running the program, I'd step to the place and do it. I can run the program."

On taking things a day at a time in the current situation — "I'm worried about winning today. I'm making sure everything is headed in the right direction, that we play with enthusiasm, and we win today, that we win tomorrow."

"The most important thing is that you keep together. You maintain continuity. Don't go off in 100 different directions. And then basically, you identify what you've got to get better at and then do it."

Saints Sounds

LB Brian Jones — "We just have to keep working hard, keep plugging away and rally behind Rick. Rick will do a good job for us. We just have to believe in him. Eight games left, we have a shot. Realistically, we have a shot if you play your butts off, work hard and do what the man asks you to do. It's still up to us."

The Series

San Francisco leads this series 37-15, with two more games having ended in ties. The 49ers have captured eight of the last 10 matchups and 16 of the last 22. The 49ers are 15-6 versus the Saints since 1986. San Francisco earned a 27-11 victory in the first matchup this year, Sept. 1 at 3Com Park in the season's opening week. The 49ers jumped out to a 24-0 halftime lead and never looked back.

Steve Young completed 18 of 29 for 199 yards and rushed for 52 yards on six carries. Jerry Rice caught five passes for 88 yards and rushed for a touchdown. The 49ers totaled 338 yards of total offense, and held the Saints to 231 yards. The 49ers hold a 19-7 advantage in games decided in New Orleans, including a 15-5 mark at the Superdome. San Francisco has captured seven of the last nine meetings at the Superdome, including a 24-22 victory in the 1995 season-opener, Sept. 3.

The last time the Saints defeated the 49ers at the Superdome was Sept. 26, 1993 when Morten Andersen's 49-yard field goal with five seconds to play lifted the Saints to a 16-13 decision. The teams split the season series in 1995. The 49ers have swept this season series a total of 12 times.

Saints-49ers Series Notes

The Saints enter the game with an overall record of 64-98-2 against the NFC West, including an 0-3 mark this year. Since 1986, they are 35-30 versus divisional foes. The Saints have dropped each of their last four decisions against NFC West clubs dating back to last season.

QB Jim Everett has completed 320 of 600 for 3,761 yards with 20 touchdowns and 18 interceptions in 18 career games against the 49ers.

CLOSE CALLS: Since 1987, 12 of the 19 meetings in this series have been decided by seven points or less, with the margin of victory in eight of those 12 having been three or less. The matchups at the Superdome in recent history have been even closer. Eight of the last nine games at the dome have been decided by seven points or less. The margin in five of those eight has been a field goal or less.

Sea Wolves add scorer

The Mississippi Sea Wolves hope they have seriously bolstered their scoring punch with the signing of right wing Kelly Hurd.

Hurd comes to the Sea Wolves with extensive International Hockey League and American Hockey League experience and solid reputation as a goal scorer. In all, Hurd has played parts of six seasons at the higher level, highlighted by a 35-goal season for the Fort Wayne Komets in 1993-94.

Hurd was also a member of the 1992-93 Turner Cup

Championship team in Fort Wayne coached by Bruce Boudreau, and Boudreau was anxious to add Hurd to the Sea Wolves' roster.

"Kelly Hurd brings a lot to the table," Boudreau said. "He's a good player. He's got great speed. He's got a booming shot and he's got the experience of playing at the AHL and IHL levels. And he's a right-handed shot, and we don't have a lot of that. So it's a very important signing for us."

Boudreau expects Hurd to fill the void up front created by the

Hancock Tourney to begin Monday at Bay High

BY RICHARD MEEK
Play is scheduled to begin Monday at Bay High in the annual Hancock County Invitational Tournament.

The tournament, on a rotating schedule between Bay High, Hancock High and St. Stanislaus, features an attractive lineup that includes some of the Gulf Coast's better teams.

The four-day tournament opens Monday at 4 p.m., with a girls game between Pass Christian and Picayune. A boys game is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. with Picayune and Hancock.

The girls resume play at 7 p.m. with Biloxi and Bay High squaring off. The evening ends with a boys game at 8 p.m. featuring Bay High and Pass Christian.

On Tuesday, a girls game matching Hancock and Ocean Springs is scheduled for 4 p.m. At 5:30 p.m., defending boys District 7, 4A champion faces Ocean Springs.

At 7 p.m., Forrest County's girls play the winner of the Pass Christian-Picayune game. At 8 loss of Mike Maurice, who was recalled by Grand Rapids. Maurice had scored in each of the Sea Wolves' first six games so far and stood second on the team in total points with seven.

"We haven't scored a lot of goals, and then we lose Mike Maurice who had averaged a point per game, so you have to replace that," Boudreau said. "Kelly Hurd can replace that."

Hurd was a sixth-round draft choice (143rd overall) by the Detroit Red Wings in the 1988 NHL Entry Draft.

Hancock in easy romp over depleted Tigers, 48-16

BY RICHARD MEEK
Bay High coach Joe Shaw finally let the frustration show through of what has been a trying season. As if the year was not already tough enough, the Tigers were forced to face county rival Hancock High minus five suspended players on Friday night.

Even with Hawk coach Rocky Gaudin mercifully pulling his starters in the third quarter, and a generous clock operator, Hancock rolled to an easy 48-16 victory.

The suspensions forced the already youthful Tigers, 1-8, 0-5 in District 7, 4A play, to press into service freshmen and sophomores on both the offensive and defensive line. Three of the players, most linemen, were suspended after being ejected from a junior varsity contest on Monday.

Two were suspended from school on Friday after an alleged incident involving a female student. The vacancies forced Shaw to alter his game plan and gave the run-orientated Hawks carte blanche on offense.

"It has been a difficult year," a subdued Shaw said, the strain on his face visible in the darkness of Joe D. McCullough Stadium.

"We tried to patch some things together but you can't have freshman and sophomores blocking seniors," he said. "We couldn't attempt to throw the ball or run the bootleg (because of the depleted line)."

Even Gaudin, a former Bay High coach who once coached on the same staff with Shaw, was somber in victory.

"I feel sorry for them," said Gaudin as he gave a hug to Shaw's young child, who also happens to be Gaudin's godchild.

"I still have feelings for the kids (at Bay High)," he said. "My heart goes out to them."

"The hardest thing is to know when to pull your kids. Hopefully, I did it right."

Darryl Williams led the Hawks with 175 yards and four touchdowns on 17 carries. He had only two carries in the second half, but they went for scoring runs of 33 and 20 yards.

Hancock wasted little time in establishing their ground superiority. Hancock needed only four plays to march 59 yards on their opening drive, the score coming on Williams' one-yard run.

Bay High had an opportunity to at least tie the game on the ensuing possession, but a Tiger drive that reached as far as the Hawk six fizzled on a missed field attempt.

Hancock answered with an 80-yard drive that required only five plays. Following a Bay High penalty, John Woods picked up 16 yards for a first down. Jimmy Jones then picked up six, and Williams followed with a 32-yard run that carried to the Tiger 22.

Two plays later, Woods scored the first of his three touchdowns on a four-yard run.

Midway through the second quarter, quarterback Chad Peterson's four-yard keeper gave the Hawks a 21-0 lead. Peterson's touchdown came six plays after Alan Thompson returned a Bay High fumble to the Tiger 15.

James Benton returned the ensuing kickoff 80 yards and Tank Williams added the two-point conversion to trim the Hancock lead to 21-8.

But with under a minute remaining in the half, Williams' five-yard run gave the Hawks a 28-8 lead.

Williams had 122 yards by the half, 72 in the first quarter.

The Tigers were held to nine second quarter yards.

"We didn't do anything different," Gaudin said. "We just ran right at them."

Williams scored on the Hawks first and second plays of the third quarter before retiring to the bench. Jones' 15-yard run late in the quarter put Hancock ahead, 48-8.

Benton, who finished with 101 yards on 17 carries, scored on a 38-yard run and added the two-point conversion early in the final period.

"I've said all year I'd love to have (Benton)," Gaudin said. "He plays hard."

Hancock, 7-2 overall, ended its district mark 4-2, which will leave the Hawks out of the playoff dance. Hancock had lost to Petal and Picayune the last two weeks.

"It was kind of hard getting the kids ready this week," Gaudin admitted. "We had to get them focused. We did a few things in practice this week to make it fun. They were more perked up."

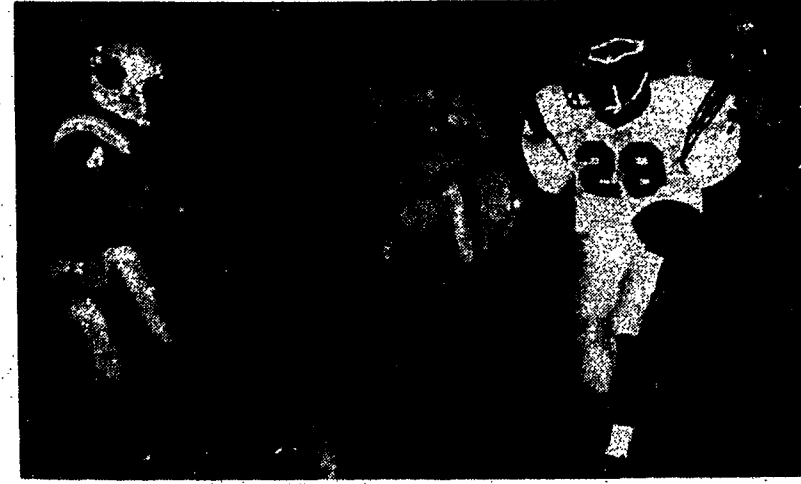

"(The Picayune loss) was one of the hardest I've ever had. But we've won seven games and it's been a few years since that happened at Hancock."

Bay High squares off with crosstown rival St. Stanislaus to close out the season on Friday. The game was cancelled last year on the day of the game because of vandalism at both schools on the night before.

"Hopefully, we will get (the suspended players) back," Shaw said. "We can go in there with a full team. I hope to have a little bit of firefire."

Hancock closes out its season by playing host to Harrison Central.

Picayune bloodies Rocks

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

Thomas Genin's bloody chin gave testimony to a night that was not kind to St. Stanislaus. Genin's chin was not the only bruise, as the Rocks' ego also took a blow in a 55-14 loss at Picayune on Friday.

Genin finished the game with 12 tackles, two forced fumbles, and a fumble recovery.

The win secured a playoff berth for Picayune and knocked Hancock High out of the post-season derby.

Corey Charles, the Rocks' bright spot all season, finished with 155 yards on 28 carries. His season record total is now 1,276 yards with one game remaining.

It took the Tide only three plays to ring up the first points of the night. Nick Woodson, who finished with 164 yards on eight carries, set the tone with a nine-yard run on the Tide's first play from scrimmage.

Tommy Lee gained the first down for the Tide with a run of 11 yards. On the next play, Woodson broke a tackle at the line of scrimmage to go 71 yards for the score at the 8:21 mark of the first quarter. Greg Mitchell made good on the PAT and the score was 7-0.

The Rocks got some short gains before Charles broke loose on a 32-yard run for a Rock first down.

After an incomplete pass on third down at the Picayune 36 yardline, the drive stalled.

The Tide took over at their own 20 and on the second play of the drive, Woodson sprinted 75 yards for the score at the 4:45 mark of the first quarter.

Jessie Seconidine came on to make good on the PAT and the score was 14-0.

On the next offensive series, the Rocks went backwards. Senior quarterback Ashley Azare was thrown for an eight-yard loss. A Rock penalty pushed them even further back. Azare was then sacked for a 10-yard loss and fumbled the football, which the Tide recovered on the Rock seven.

Two plays later, Lee scored from one yard out with 2:40 to go in the first quarter. Mitchell's PAT made the score 21-0.

Roderick Jackson scored from four yards out with 4:31 left in the second quarter to make the score 27-0.

SSC took the kickoff at their own 20 yardline. The Rocks were moving the ball behind the legs of Charles with gains of 12, eight, and six yards. Then, SSC tried to go to the air. Azare completed his only pass of the night to Charles for a four-yard loss, who fumbled behind the line. Woodson picked up the loose ball and ran in from 36 yards out for the score at the :37 mark of the first half. Mitchell made good on the PAT and the score was 34-0.

The Rock defense came out strong in the second half, sacking Lott for a nine-yard loss on the first play from scrimmage. Lee gained four yards before Lott went to the air. He connected with Greg Walls for an 81-yard scoring strike with 10:20 left in the third quarter. Mitchell made good on the PAT and the score was 41-0.

The Rocks lost the ball back to the Tide after a fumbled exchange between the quarterback and center.

It took the Tide only three plays to ring up more points. Lee scored from two yards out at the 7:19 mark of the third quarter. Mitchell connected on the PAT making the score 48-0.

The Rocks mustered some small gains from Charles but had to line up to punt.

Azare scored from one yard out with 9:47 left in the game to make the score 48-7.

The Rocks attempted an onside kick but failed to recover.

Sylvester Stubbs chalked up a 12-yard gain and a first down for Picayune. Lott went back to the air but Jones dropped the ball behind the line of scrimmage and Rock defensive back Rob Hoff picked up the loose ball and went 65 yards for the score with 7:26 left in the game. Morrison connected on the PAT making the score 48-14.

After the game Rock head coach Mario Genna said he had "no comment."

With the loss, the Rocks fall to 4-5 on the season with one game remaining. The Rocks will host crosstown rival Bay High Tigers at SSC on Friday.

Should you redeem or hang on to your savings bonds?

Q. My husband and I have a number of U.S. Savings Bonds from the 1980's and early 1990's, through February, 1993. We are wondering if we should just keep the bonds or sell them and put the money elsewhere for higher interest earnings. How can we find out what they are earning? What is your suggestion about keeping vs. selling?

A. To decide which bonds to keep and which to redeem, compare the rate your bond is earning to the earnings you expect from the alternative savings vehicle. This seems simple and it would be except that your bonds are paying a variety of different rates depending upon when they were issued and whether they have reached their original maturity date.

Bonds issued between November 1986 and March 1993 are paying a minimum of 6% interest. They will continue under that minimum interest rate until their original maturity date 12 years from issue. Some will pay a minimum of 6% until February, 2005. Yields on bonds issued in 1991 and 1992 are as high as 8.18% during the current six-month period.

For in-depth information on what each bond issue pays, check the U.S. Treasury Web site at 222.ustreas.gov. Yields on bonds through April 1997 are currently available. For a computer program to help you manage and keep track of your savings bonds, try the Savings Bond Wizard available for downloading at the same web site.

Your banker is also a good local source of information on the current value of your specific savings bond issues. He will need to know the issue date, type and denomination of the bond to give you a current value.

As you evaluate each savings bond issue, keep in mind that the rules and interest rates change as the bonds enter extended maturity periods. For example, bonds bought in late 1985 had an original maturity of 10 years. They entered their extended maturity period last year. Prior to their original maturity they paid a minimum of 7.5%. Now they fall under the 1995 rules and pay a lower rate.

If you decide to cash in some of your bonds, take care in when you redeem. Savings bonds generally increase in value very six months. So as not to lose any interest, it is a good idea to cash a bond in the month in which interest is added. Otherwise, you may lose several months' interest.

For instance, if your bond has an issue date of January, it increases in value in January and July. If you redeem the bond in May, you receive the same amount of interest as if you had redeemed in January. Wait until July to redeem for the maximum amount of interest. Redeem the bond as early in the month as possible since interest is credited on the first day of the month.

There is an exception to the semi-annual interest payments. Series EE bonds issued March 1993 through April 1995 pay interest the first of every month for at least five years.

Remember that the interest on your savings bonds is subject to federal income tax, but not state income tax. If you have not opted to report interest accruing on your bonds each year, then you report the total interest earned in the year they are redeemed. Include savings bond interest with other interest income on your federal income tax return.

You may not owe any income tax on savings bond interest used to pay for the educational expenses of you, your spouse or dependents. To qualify for the exclusion, the taxpayer must be at least 24 when the bonds were purchased. The exclusion is available to those who don't exceed certain income limits in the year the bonds are redeemed. For 1996, single taxpayers with modified adjusted gross income under $49,450 and married-filing-joint taxpayers under $74,200 are eligible for the full exclusion. It is phased out over an income range that ends for single taxpayers at $64,450 and for married couples at $104,200.

Be patient through stock market cycles

Warren Buffett, renowned for his investing acumen, says that the first rule of successful investing is not to lose money. "The second rule," he says, "is not to forget the first rule."

How successful are investors in following this rule? The Investment Company Institute (ICI), the voice of the mutual fund industry, recently released a study that might answer this question. The study analyzed how mutual fund shareholders have behaved during market downturns in the past. Specifically, the ICI wanted to know if investors sell shares when the market goes down — violating Buffett's first rule.

The ICI studied mutual fund shareholder activity during U.S. stock market cycles from 1944 to 1995. A "cycle" is measured by peaks and troughs in the monthly average of the Standard & Poor's (S&P) 500 index of stocks. Since World War II, the stock market has experienced 14 major cycles. Each cycle began with a market peak, followed by decline and a "trough," a period in which the market stayed low before climbing to a new peak and beginning a new cycle.

In the period studied, the 14 cycles lasted anywhere from four months to 37 months. The average downturn lasted 14 months. The largest drop in the S&P 500 Index was 43.4 percent in the 1973-74 cycle. The smallest decreases were about 10 percent (1959-60, 1971 and 1983-84). The average decrease during the period studied was 19.5 percent.

The ICI found that no particular event triggers a cycle. Only eight market cycles were associated with cycles in general business conditions. The other six, however, occurred in advance of economic slowdowns. Evidently, a cycle doesn't have any significant characteristics to alert investors of a forthcoming market decline.

How did mutual fund investors behave during these cycles? The ICI found that most investors stayed the course. "In none of the stockmarket breaks and sharp declines in equity prices have stock fund owners liquidated shares en masse," the ICI concluded. This included the huge one-day stock market decline on Oct. 19, 1987, when only about 4.5 percent of stock fund assets were redeemed in the last half of October.

The study did find, however, that shareholders do pay attention to stock price movements. They put more new money into stock funds when the market was rising than when it was declining. (However, we would hope that more investors would invest in a declining market. After all, whether you're buying socks or stocks, the best time to buy is when they go on sale.)

Perhaps the most significant conclusion of the ICI study is that stock fund shareholders appear to be experienced investors. They seem to have long-term investment objectives and a basic understanding of investment risk.

Warren Buffett's first rule of investing — not to lose money — may be easier said than done. However, a corresponding rule that stock market declines have not been disastrous to investors is worthy of being patient and staying the course will help you follow Buffett's No. 1 rule.

"But, we're being inundated with maybe 100 letters a week from those opposing it. We're not getting that many letters in support of it," said Harvey.

Asked whether he was aware that the Board of Supervisors is on record supporting both gambling projects in Hancock County, Harvey suggested the board and those favoring gambling should become more vocal.

"Bay St. Louis is a charming, marvelous town, but it seems totally anti-casino," said Harvey. "I don't think the community has embraced legalized gambling like Harrison County."

He gave the ill-fated casino planned and defeated at Henderson Point as an example.

"That was a legal site," said Harvey. "And, the Harrison County Board of Supervisors was on record 5-0 favoring it."

"But, again, we were inundated by letters from anti-gaming groups, from environmentalists and from the nearby Baptist retreat center. We looked closer at the site, and we didn't like the potential traffic flow, among other things, so we ruled it was not in the best interest of the community," said Harvey.

Harvey said he encourages citizens input to any gambling venture, but, "a lot of times, environment is not the issue. You're hearing more from the anti-gaming interests and those who have a vested interest in being the only gaming in town," said Harvey.

Without naming names, Harvey said there are some people in Hancock County who oppose gambling developments "simply because they want to put in little slot parlors." He said he will oppose that idea as long as he heads the Commission.

With gambling comes other construction, a rise in employment and earnings and spin-off businesses, Harvey said. In fact, for the first time, he revealed that he recently had talks with a billionaire industrialist in Spain who is interested in locating a plant in Mississippi that will manufacture slot machines.

He said the site selected will ultimately "be in a location that is not anti-gambling and is business friendly." He pointed out that Harrison County has the best reputation for being able to get feuding groups together in order to accommodate gaming.

"Jackson County is a lot like Hancock," said Harvey. "Those people simply don't want any kind of gaming."

"Like it or not, gaming has had a tremendous impact on this state," said Harvey. Some 28,000 jobs directly or indirectly have been created. And, despite what some might say, these are not low-paying, minimum wage jobs, for the most part.

"It has also forced the cities involved to upgrade and modernize, build new roads and make other infrastructure improvements."

Harvey said the leading gaming market is Tunica, not the Gulf Coast. "It's amazing to see what's happening there. The people are working and there is prosperity where there once was wholesale poverty."

Touching briefly on the demise of the Jubilee venture at Bayou Caddy, Harvey said, "We knew from the start it was a terrible location. Any stand-alone casino is destined for problems."

He said the Jubilee also lost the Louisiana market when it shut down temporarily then brought in a smaller ship.

Harvey said the Commission was always aware of Jubilee's financial situation. "It was a classic example of not having enough financial resources to operate," said Harvey. "And, when they couldn't pay off a jackpot, we felt we had to shut them down."

Supervisors have complained that the county must now bear the costs of taking down Jubilee's signs of the highways, and Harvey was asked if the Commission could force them to do that.

"No, we're a regulatory agency, not a law enforcement agency," said Harvey. "But, supervisors might want to think of some kind of local law that would protect them if future casinos locate here and go broke."

Harvey said he did not think the gaming commission should get directly involved in bankruptcy proceedings taken against casinos, such as Treasure Bay, which is in receivership, and has tried to reformulate a plan to pay off creditors.

"From time to time, (bankruptcy) judges have solicited information from the Gaming Commission," said Harvey, but, again, this is a business decision. We shouldn't get involved."

Asked about an increase in crime that has come with gambling, Harvey said, "The nasty types of crime (murders, rapes, etc) has not risen," although armed robberies, car thefts and other crimes might have jumped.

"An increase in crime comes with an increase in population," said Harvey.

Harvey was recently elected Chairman of the National Council for Responsible Gaming, and he said he takes the responsibility seriously.

"Gaming is a terrible addiction," said Harvey. "In fact, it carries with it, the highest suicide rate."

Harvey said studies have shown that five percent of the population, roughly five out of 100, suffer from gaming addiction, with 70 percent of the victims being women. "The same proportion is true of alcoholics," he said.

"And, despite what people may think, those addicted are not poverty-level, black females on welfare," said Harvey. "The surveys show that most addicts are white, affluent with income over $30,000 a year, and with at least some college education."

Harvey said the Commission has contributed $100,000 and the gaming industry another $200,000 to establish a 24-hour hotline to help those addicted.

Asked whether the Commission would get directly involved in the addiction problem, Harvey said it is more of a law enforcement problem, and for the Commission to get more involved, would require additional staffing.

At numerous public hearings, environmentalist and even the staff of the Department of Marine Resources have called for an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS), which would look at the changes to waterbottoms brought about since casinos docked in Mississippi.

"That is again a political ploy used by anti-gaming forces," said Harvey. "If it's undertaken to stop the growth of the industry, then I would be opposed to it."

He said an EIS would involve the EPA, the U.S. Army, Corps of Engineers, the DMR and others.

Harvey said he would not oppose "An Environmental Assessment" study that would be financed partly by the gaming commission and by the casinos."

"And, I don't think the industry would oppose it, if an outside independent consultant could be hired to do a comprehensive study," said Harvey.

The gaming chief said Louisiana's tumultuous gambling climate has ultimately helped the industry in Mississippi, and especially the coast.

"It's a shining example of how not to do it," said Harvey. He said even if Harrah's reopens its casino in New Orleans, "It is going to be a diminished market."

Harvey said Mississippi has escaped pitfalls "by letting gambling operate in a free enterprise environment."

"When you limit the licenses, you politicize the situation, and you're going to invite organized crime in," said Harvey.

Loicano took the plunge and did a printing.

"I just happened to enter it in a Place of Art IV and there was so much interest I decided to make the investment and do the print," she explained. "It did really well and continues to sell."

When so many people asked when she would be doing other harbors, Loicano decided to do a series of Gulf Coast Harbors.

Her second print, "Yachting Centennial," depicting the Bay Waveland Yacht Club, was first shown in October and is now available.

Admittedly, influenced by Matisse, Loicano paints in acrylic water color using lots of color and shapes.

She says she enjoys painting interior scenes the best from what she calls the "inside out."

I like interior scenes with maybe a window or a porch in it or something that would give it depth," she said. "I like to paint happy scenes where people would say 'I wish I was there' or 'I wish I could sit in that couch'."

With the success of the two printings Loicano says she has gained confidence in herself as an artist.

"For a long time if someone asked me what I did, I'd fumble and spit out a list of things (including) aerobics instructor, working for my parents and artist would always come last," she said. "Now I feel that I can calmly say I'm an artist."

As to what comes next, Loicano says she feels like she is entering a new phase as an artist and is anxious to get back to painting large canvases.

"Right now I'm going to paint whatever I feel like painting and not what other people seem to want," she said. "My goal is also to get more involved in the local artist community."

No matter what the form, it's a safe bet that you will find Andrea Loicano painting something.

"I can't imagine ever stopping," she explains. "It's my therapy."

within that period, the sheriff can have a tow truck take it away.

The owner is then given 30 days to claim the vehicle, and pay the towing and storage fee and any other fines that might be levied against the vehicle. If no one claims the vehicle, the county may auction off the property after 30 days with the proceeds from the sale going into the general fund.

The last-known registered owner of the vehicle will be notified by certified or registered mail that the vehicle will be sold. If the identity of the last registered owner can't be determined, notice will be made three successive weeks in the county newspaper describing the vehicle that will be sold.

Whiplash...A Job For The Doctor of Chiropractic

You've had an accident. Maybe it involved your car and it's banged up. Now what? Well, let's see. Call the insurance company and report the damages; take the car in and get the necessary estimates; see if you can get a loaner; get the job done.

And try not to think about the sore neck... or leg... or knee... or shoulder. The pain will probably go away in a few days. Won't it?

Unfortunately, in the case of a whiplash neck injury, the symptoms may not appear for several days or even weeks following the accident. By then, you may not even associate the stiff neck, persistent headaches, irritability or nausea with the real cause — that bent fender that has long since been repaired.

Many of the cervical disorders we've studied have been the result of auto accidents. Most of these injuries were due to whiplash incurred in rear-end auto collisions. The violent backward snapping, then the forward rolling motion of the head following impact puts a tremendous strain on the neck. Torn muscles, stretched ligaments and spinal damage frequently occur.

Time is not on your side in the case of a whiplash injury. Left untreated, the condition will only worsen, often developing into severe migraine headaches, extreme nervousness, insomnia or arthritis.

The victim of a whiplash neck injury is truly in need of appropriate treatment and care, the type care offered by Chiropractic. As a specialist in the problems of the spine, nerves and muscles, the Doctor of Chiropractic is recognized as well qualified to deal with whiplash injuries. Unfortunately, too many don't know this.

USM Alumni Association announces Hall inductees

The USM Alumni Association has named seven alumni to the USM Alumni Hall of Fame. The 1996 inductees are Alton G. Bankston, Donald Hemeter, Margaret Loesch, Ralph C. McDaniel, Raymond McMullen, Lou Ann Poynter and Ben Willoughby.

Bankston, a 1963 graduate, is a Gulf Coast resident and is actively involved in many organizations in the area. He has served as the president of the Harrison County USM Alumni Association and as an officer of the Biloxi Rotary Club. He has also been involved with organizations such as the Biloxi Elks, United Way, and the Harrison County Heart Fund.

Bankston is a long-time season ticket holder for USM sporting events and has been a member of the Eagle Club since its creation. He is currently serving as president of the USM Eagle Club Advisory Board and is serving on the USM Foundation Executive Committee as chairman of the Investment Committee. Bankston is married to the former Kay Burgdoll, a 1964 and 1983 graduate of USM.

Donald Hemeter, a 1959 graduate and a Waynesboro resident, has served as the administrator of Wayne General Hospital from 1967 to present. He has served as an officer in the United States Infantry and the Mississippi National Guard. He is past president of the Wayne County USM Alumni Chapter, member of the Eagle Club, Honors Club member of the USM Foundation, a season ticket holder for USM sporting events, and an active member of the USM Alumni Association for the past 32 years.

Hemeter has also been involved with organizations such as the Waynesboro Rotary Club, the Wayne County Chamber of Commerce, the Boy Scouts of America, and the Mississippi Hospital Association Governing Board. He is married to Toni Clark Hemeter, a 1967 USM graduate and 30-year member of the Alumni Association.

Margaret Loesch, a 1968 USM graduate, founded FOX Children's Network and is known in the children's animation business as "the queen of cartoons." She has revolutionized the world of children's television programming and is responsible for the successful "Mighty Morphin Power Rangers," "Where on Earth is Carmen Sandiego?" and all other FOX children's programming.

As former president and CEO of Marvel Productions, Ltd., she was the first woman to head a major film and television production studio.

Loesch is a four-time Emmy Award winner and a 1993 honoree of the YMCA Academy of Women Achievers. A former vice-president for children's programming with Hanna-Barbera, she supervised development and production of the Emmy Award-winning series "The Smurfs." Loesch is married to wood sculptor Curtis Simpson.

Ralph C. McDaniel, a 1953 graduate, is a Jackson resident and senior vice-president of Underwood Homes in Brandon. He was president of the Alumni Association in 1961 where his term was highlighted by a 33 percent increase in chapters, a 40 percent increase in Alumni membership and a legislative campaign that changed the name of the school to the University of Southern Mississippi.

McDaniel is a member of the USM Foundation, the Eagle Club, member and past president of the Home Builders Association of Jackson, and member and past director of the North Jackson Rotary Club. He served 21 months in the U.S. Army and is a retired Lt. Colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve. McDaniel is married to the former Kay Coker, a 1954 graduate.

Raymond McMullen, a 1959 and 1963 graduate, is currently the director of admissions, records, and research at East Central Community College. He is a member of the Mississippi Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers where he served as president during the 1995-96 term, the Decatur Lions Club and a deacon and Sunday School teacher at Clarke-Venable Baptist Church.

A lifetime member of the USM Alumni Association and member of the Eagle Club, McMullen has been awarded the USM Alumni Outstanding Service Award, and he served on the Alumni Board of Directors from 1992 to 1994. He is married to the former Lois Foster, a 1970 USM graduate and mathematics professor at East Central. Their two children, Dr. Mike McMullen and Sherri Russell, are both USM graduates.

Lou Ann Poynter, a 1969 and 1979 graduate, lives in Hattiesburg and is president and CEO of Federal Magnolia Bank for Savings. She also serves as president and director of Magna Bancorp Inc., the holding company of Magnolia Federal. She is past president of the Mississippi Financial Managers Society and has served on the Mississippi state Board of Public Accountancy.

Poynter currently serves as vice-president and a member of the Board of Directors of the USM Foundation, and she serves on the Board of Trustees of the First Baptist Church of Hattiesburg. She is married to Louis G. Poynter.

Ben Willoughby, a 1963 graduate, is a former halfback and linebacker for the USM football team. He currently has a daily outdoor radio show on Eagle 103 and writes outdoor related articles for Mississippi Outdoor Journal and several newspapers.

After graduating from USM, he worked in sales and public relations for Carnation Co. In 1979 he moved to Hattiesburg and was director of the Eagle Club. Willoughby left USM in 1993 to enter private business. An avid hunter and fisherman, he also enjoys speaking to school groups and civic clubs on a wide range of subjects from conservation to wildlife management.

The seven alumni will be formally inducted at the annual Alumni Hall of Fame Banquet Friday, Nov. 1 at the Hattiesburg Country Club. The banquet will start at 7 p.m.

At the annual USM Alumni Association business meeting on Saturday, Nov. 2 at USM's Bennett Auditorium, several other alumni will be honored for their service to the university. Reed Allison of Hattiesburg, Don and Patricia Benefield of Gulfport, Jewel Dunajick of Little Rock, Kelly Heindle of Pensacola, Tommy Hutto of Picayune, Joel Hinson of Tylertown, Rusty McKinley of Memphis, Jewell Tucker of Hattiesburg, Mike Wade of Tupelo and Bryant Wallace of Summitt will all receive Outstanding Service Awards.

Continuous Service Awards will be awarded to Rosalyn Folks of Picayune, Raymond McMullen of Decatur, Shelby Thames of Hattiesburg, Eugene Owens of Laurel, and Ken Rushing of Brandon.

Lance Adams will receive the Outstanding Young Alumnus Award, and Rosalyn Folks will receive the Scott Caldwell Award for most outstanding chapter president.

The Friend of USM Award will be awarded to Brad Bryan of Hattiesburg, and the Meritorious Service Award will be awarded to Aubrey K. Lucas of Hattiesburg. The business meeting will start at 10 a.m.

Coast represented in USM Hall of Fame

Biloxi businessman and civic leader Alton G. Bankston is among seven persons who will be inducted into the University of Southern Mississippi Alumni Hall of Fame Friday, Nov. 1.

Also scheduled to be inducted during the annual Hall of Fame banquet at the Hattiesburg country club is Margaret Loesch of Los Angeles — USM class of 1968, a former Pass Christian resident and founding president of Fox Children's Network. This year, she became chair and chief executive of Fox Kids Network Worldwide.

Bankston, class of 1963, is actively involved in many organizations along the Gulf Coast. He has served as president of the Harrison County USM Alumni Association, Big Gold Club, Biloxi School Board, Greater Biloxi Economic Development Foundation and Mid-South Buying; and is one of the founders and the first president of Biloxi First, a community group for the Biloxi Public Schools. He taught history and government for two years at Harrison Central High School and government for five years at Biloxi High School. He now owns Bankston's Paint Store.

The other 1996 USM Hall of Fame inductees included Donald Hemeter (1959), a Waynesboro Hospital administrator; Ralph C. McDaniel (1953), a Brandon homebuilder and resident of Jackson; Raymond McMullen (1959, 1963) of Decatur, an East Central Community College administrator; Magnolia Federal Bank for Savings Chief Executive Officer Lou

Ann Poynter (1969, 1978) of Hattiesburg; and former UMS football player Ben Willoughby (1963), a Hattiesburg businessman, outdoorsman and former director of the USM Eagle Club.

The USM Alumni Association also will honor 20 others Saturday, Nov. 2, during Homecoming '96 weekend activities leading up to the Golden Eagles' 2:30 p.m. clash against Conference USA football rival Cincinnati.

The association's top honor for the weekend's activities, dubbed a "Bow-Tie Affair," was to go to longtime USM President Aubrey K. Lucas. Known for his trademark bowties, Lucas will receive the association's Meritorious Service Award for his contributions to the University during his past 21 years as president. Lucas will step aside as president at the end of 1996.

Grant renewed for SSC

A $23,683 grant from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has continued funding for a University of Southern Mississippi-Stennis Space Center ongoing history project.

The grant was first awarded in 1990 to help Stennis Space Center establish and maintain an historical archives on-site in Hancock County, said Dr. Charles Bolton, USM associate professor and director of the Center for Oral History and Cultural Heritage.

In the beginning, Bolton said, funds went to establish an archives, gather historical material and record oral histories of longtime Stennis employees and area residents. Continued funding has allowed two USM graduate students each year to work in the archives at Stennis and continue its development, Bolton said.

"This is a great experience and opportunity for our students — especially those enrolled in USM's dual-masters program that combines a history and library science master's degree — because they gain valuable experience and also can put on their resume that they have worked in a federal archives," Bolton said. "It also provides a cost-effective way for NASA to maintain their archives at Stennis."

Aren't you glad there's a hospital that believes it, too?

You know, life really isn't so complicated. Even with all the changes going on around us, we can still rely on some basic values to keep the world in perspective and give our lives stability. At Slidell Memorial Hospital, we believe that stability comes from our families and our community. We believe that we pass these values on from generation to generation, by leading productive lives and setting positive examples for our children and our neighbors. And even though you may not think about it everyday, so much of who we are and what we do depends on how we feel. Your health is, without a doubt, your greatest asset. American Legion Auxiliary
Unit 139

The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 of Bay St. Louis will sponsor a student to the Americanism Youth Conference at Freedoms Foundation Valley Forge, Pa. April 3-6.

The four-day conference consists of lectures, workshops and tours. Since 1965 more than 34,000 young people have attended youth conferences conducted at Freedoms Foundation. The programs encourage participants to think about the future of America and their job as responsible citizens.

Objectives are to explore the foundations of American democracy and the elements of the free enterprise system; to enhance leadership development and encourage community service; and to examine through discussions and debates major national and international issues.

Students grades 11-12 are eligible. Applications must submit a 33-500-word essay on the topic: "The Flag Protection Amendment: A Student's Perspective." Applicants must show leadership potential and desire for community service.

Students interested in participating may contact Phyllis Moran at 466-0480 for information. The deadline for entries is Dec. 2.

MHV Council met Oct. 24 at the Human Resources Building on Longfellow Drive. Beverly Vaughan, International Day chairman, presented a program showcasing the country of Greece, which included a display of cookbooks, literature, art, video and music.

It was followed by a bake sale that included baklava as well as home-baked breads, pecan pies, brownies, cupcakes, etc.

A short council meeting was held to discuss Salvation Army's Children's Christmas party and to remind members to bring dolls, bears and stockings to the November 21 meeting at the Extension Service office.

Members voted to sponsor a Christmas Tour of Homes at historic Jackson Barracks in New Orleans Thursday, Dec. 12. Cost of $25.25 includes bus transportation, tour of five homes, refreshments, entertainment, lunch at the Officers Club and a side trip to the Riverwalk. Only 34 seats are available.

Those interested, call Adele at 466-3937 or Inez at 467-5018. Deadline is Nov. 15.

All MHV club meetings are open to the public.

The Learning Ladies Club met Wednesday, Oct. 16 at La Caffe Cafe with 11 members and two guests attending. Adele Langkopp presided, and Mary Lou Mutter led the Pledge of Allegiance and MHV Creed. Minutes were read by Inez Oliver, and Reba Echezabal gave the treasurer's report.

Gertrude Helwig requested that Hope Haven membership be renewed.

Mary Lou Mutter gave some pointers on the use of a micro-wave oven. Joan Gauthier, Christmas party chairman, quoted prices for food at four restaurants. Members voted to use Waveland Holiday Inn.

Members were asked to bring Salvation Army gifts to the next meeting, Nov. 20 at Coast Electric beginning at 9:30 a.m. Annual dues will be collected at this time.

Waveland Senior Citizens

The Senior Citizens of Waveland will meet Nov. 4 at 10 a.m. at the American Legion Home 77.

Guest speaker will be Chief Garcia. Member Al Pepperman will speak on the Elderhostel service program. Refreshments will be served.

KILN

TOPS MS 231 Kiln met Monday, Oct. 28, at the District 4 Community Center. The chapter held its annual open house where visitors were invited to attend. For the occasion there were two guest speakers, Debbie Estapa and Ruth Barnes from neighboring Chapter MS 233 Waveland. Debbie gave an overview of TOPS, her experiences and SRD (State Recognition Day). Ruth, who was this year's TOPS queen runner-up at SRD also shared her success story and gave highlights of IRD (International Recognition Day) in Washington, D.C.

TOPS MS 231 meets every Monday at the District 4 Community Center, Hwy. 43, Kiln. Weigh-ins are 4:45-5:15 p.m. with the meeting following. The chapter encourages anyone desiring to lose and maintain weight to visit and join their TOPS chapter. For information, call Helen at 255-7658.

Hancock County
Republican Women

The Hancock County Republican Women will meet Thursday, Nov. 7 at 11 a.m. at the Diamondhead Community Center. Election of new officers will be held. For information, call Pat at 255-4181.

20th Star Chapter DAR

Twentieth Star Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, celebrated the centennial anniversary of the DAR Library at the October meeting held in the home of Mrs. Robert Lindley. Mrs. Douglas McLelland was co-hostess.

A slide program about the history of the library, located in Washington, D.C., was presented by Mrs. Paul Crowson. During the past century the DAR Library has grown from a small collection of 600 books into one of the nation's premier genealogical research centers with a specialized collection of American genealogical and historical publications and manuscripts totaling over 135,000 volumes and tens of thousands of files.

The library is located in the DAR's first permanent home, Memorial Continental Hall. This hall gained historical recognition as the site of the Conference on Limitation of Armament in 1921-22 and was listed on the National Historic Landmarks Register in 1973. A three-volume set of catalogs which list the book holdings is located in the McCain Library Reading Room at USM. Members and non-members alike make contributions to the library.

Mrs. P. R. Davenport conducted the business meeting and announced that on Nov. 9 at 10 a.m. 20th Star Chapter DAR and Ensign John Sheldon Chapter CDXVIIC will join in marking the graves of Katherine Temple (Atwell) McQuague, Henrietta Koons Butler and Frances Tucker Hathorn. Members and friends are invited to attend.

Family Caregiver's Week

"Multiple Sclerosis is a very unpredictable, chronic, neurological disease generally diagnosed in people aged 20-40 as they're building careers and raising families," according to Danielle Seale, LMSW, chapter service director of the Mississippi Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

"MS affects the entire family — well spouse, and even children often assume caregiving roles," she says. Further, Seale says that the very nature of MS can make the family caregiver's role difficult.

"That is why we want people across America to know that real help is as close as their telephone," she says.

Family Caregiver's Week is endorsed by prominent Americans including U.S. Representative Connie Mitchell of Maryland and Senator Olympia Snowe of Maine. The National MS Society, the American Medical Association, the National Federation of Interfaith Volunteer Caregivers, and the Public Library Association. During Thanksgiving Week, clergy will be asked to recognize caregivers in their congregations, and public libraries will mount displays of information on family care.

The Mississippi Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society will mark National Caregiver's Week Nov. 24-30.

The Mississippi Chapter will hold a caregiver support group Nov. 25 at 6 p.m. at the chapter office in Jackson. For details and listings of other support groups for caregivers offered throughout the state, call 1-800-FIGHT-MS, 601-981-5364.

WAVELAND

TOPS MS 233 Waveland met Tuesday, Oct. 29 at the Waveland Public Library. Kathy was the week's best loser with 3 1/2 pounds. Tammy was the week's best youth loser with 1 1/2 pounds. Debbie was the week's best KOPS loser.

Tammy received a charm for losing six weeks in a row. Due to election, the club will meet Wednesday, Nov. 6.

TOPS MS 233 meets every Tuesday. Weigh-ins are from 5-5:45 p.m. with the meeting immediately following weigh-in.

Anyone interested in losing weight the sensible way and maintaining that weight loss is welcome to visit the TOPS chapter. Interested persons are invited to call Judy at 255-5413 for information.

Hancock Women's Club

The Hancock Women's Club met Oct. 10 at Annie's Restaurant in Pass Christian.

Billie Jean Niver, vice-president, presided over a short meeting. Two new members were welcomed to the club, Joyce Keenan and Caroline Battalora, also a new prospective member, Shirley Clemons.

The raffle ticket was won by Rosemary Kirchem.

October birthday corsages were given to Shirley Jones, Dorothy Zimmerman, Jennie Artis and Theresa James.

Money and food collected was given to St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Dorothy Zimmerman gave the invocation before lunch.

The next meeting will be Thursday, Nov. 14 at 11 a.m. at the Pass Christian Yacht Club. It will be the "silent auction" meeting.

Game Day will be at the train depot Wednesday, Nov. 20 at 11 a.m. Poker-A-Keno and Dominos will be played.

Coast Youth Ballet
presents production

The Coast Youth Ballet Ensemble will present its new holiday production called "Tales from the Ballet" Saturday, Nov. 23 at Bay High Auditorium in Bay St. Louis at 7:30 p.m. There will also be a special one-hour young children's version presented at 11 a.m. with discounted tickets for children and senior citizens.

The ensemble, under the direction of Sharon Loiacano, will perform excerpts from the ballets Coppelius, Cinderella and The Nutcracker. The evening show will also feature a special guest appearance of soloists from the Mobile Ballet performing selections from Sleeping Beauty as choreographed by Rudolph Nureyev and staged by Mobile's artistic director Winthrop Corey.

The colorful production proves to be educational as well as entertaining with a special theatrical narration tying the "tales" together as the dancers bring the storybook characters to life.

Tickets for both shows go on sale Monday, Nov. 4 at Applause! Dance Wear in Gulfport and at Anthony's Men's Wear, Bookends and the Coast Youth Ballet Academy in Bay St. Louis.

Prices range from $6 to $12 for the evening performance and $3 to $6 for the 11 a.m. show. Senior citizens and children's groups may inquire about group discounts to the morning show.

For information, call 466-2625.

The Coast Youth Ballet Ensemble is in its seventh season offering performing opportunities for serious Coast dancer.

The production is being co-sponsored by the Bay High Fine Arts Association, promoting the arts in the Bay-Waveland area and helping to support arts education in schools.

WEDDING

Morris-Davis

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morris

Miss Angela Elizabeth Davis of Hattiesburg and Mr. Raymond Joe Morris of Clinton, Miss. were married in an afternoon ceremony September 14, 1996 at Temple Baptist Church in Hattiesburg.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Davis of Picayune.

The groom is the son of Raymond Calvin Morris and Bobbie Jo Morris of Clinton.

Officiating the ceremony was the Rev. Jimmy Stewart.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She chose for her wedding a designer gown of ivory peau and elaborate beading. The fitted basque-waisted bodice, designed with a jewel neckline and short crown sleeves, was lavishly overlaid with swirls of crystal beading. Folds of peau created a ballgown skirt developing into a chapel-length train beneath the open square-cut back neckline. Tiers of fingertip veils were held by a crown of braided pearls and prisms. She wore opera-length gloves with pearl and crystal accessories and carried a cascade of fresh "stargazer" lilies, white roses, stephonis and ivy.

Her attendants each wore princess gowns of navy crepe designed with an open sweetheart neckline and short crown sleeves.

Maid of honor was Amy L. Knight, and bridesmaids included Ann Assaf, Ann Backus, Shirlee Pager Baldwin, Pamela Luckie Castle and Chris Ann Craft.

Flower girl was Kelly Keyes, and ring bearer was Adam Morris. Program attendants were Chassity Seals, Brittany Wilson and Natalie Keyes; guest book attendant was Georgia Bilberry.

Best man was Ricky Accardo, and ushers included Al Shiyou of Hattiesburg; Jeff Jones of Hattiesburg, Kurt Boeding of Brandon, Miss., and Donnie Castle of Hattiesburg.

Groomsmen were Gregory Y. Craft, Chuck Head, Alan Ingram, David C. Morris and Gary Tucker.

Lector was Gene Scatini of Bay St. Louis.

A reception was hosted at Crawford House and Gardens in Hattiesburg.

A rehearsal dinner was at the home of Mr. and Ms. Al Shiyou in Hattiesburg.

The bride hosted an attendants' luncheon for bridesmaids and special guests Sept. 13 at the Riverwalk Marketplace in Petal.

The couple will reside in Clinton.

Proud great-grandmother Mamie Favre of Bay St. Louis is shown with granddaughter Dawn Yennie of Hahnville, Louisiana, two-year-old Ashleigh Reese, and Dawn's father and Ashleigh's grandfather, Harold Yennie.

The "WORD" for the Week

Dennis J. Prutow, Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

When Christ left this earth after His resurrection, He promised His Father would send the "Holy" Spirit. The "Holy" Spirit took His place. "I will not leave you orphans," said Jesus. "I will ask the Father, and He will give you another Helper, that He may be with you forever" (John 14:18 and 16). God sent this other Helper, the "Holy" Spirit, into the world to be with us and stand with us just like Jesus.

Since the Father sent us the "Holy" Spirit, there are some very dramatic consequences. When Jesus Christ walked on the earth, men and women came face to face with their sins. Jesus gave some directions to Peter and other fishermen. As a result, they hauled in a huge catch of fish. "But when Simon Peter saw that, he fell down at Jesus' feet, saying, 'Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O

The 'Holy' Spirit

Lord" (Luke 5:8). The holiness of Jesus Christ became evident to him. Peter felt tremendous guilt because of his sins. Should we be surprised if the "Holy" Spirit does the same thing? Look at what Jesus promised about the coming of the "Holy" Spirit. "He, when He comes, will convict the world concerning sin" (John 16:8).

Here is the good part. When we see our sins, we may turn to Jesus, the Savior from sin!

Life is a Series of Stages

It seems that life is divided into different progressive stages that each of us will go through. A typical example begins after a child is born. He or she starts by going through the preschool years, then elementary school, high school, and then perhaps to college or the workforce. The next stage may occur when one gets married and starts raising a family. Eventually, one may retire and perhaps travel or settle into a retirement community. Life is such that each new stage should be better than the previous one. We should not dwell on the past, but profit from all we have learned on our journey through life. The final stage should be the best of all, as long as we know Jesus as our Savior. When we enter the final stage of our life here on earth, we can learn from, and be comforted by the words that Jesus told the man who died next to him on the cross: "Today you will be with me in paradise."

I have been young, and now am old; yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken...

A RESOLUTION OF THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF BAY ST. LOUIS, MISSISSIPPI, AUTHORIZING THE BORROWING OF AN AMOUNT NOT TO EXCEED FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($500,000) BY ENTERING INTO A LOAN WITH THE MISSISSIPPI DEVELOPMENT BANK FOR THE PURPOSE OF IMPROVING, REPAIRING AND EXTENDING THE CITY OF BAY ST. LOUIS, MISSISSIPPI, WATER, SEWER AND GAS SYSTEM OF THE CITY OF BAY ST. LOUIS, MISSISSIPPI.

WHEREAS, the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi (the "City") has been designated as a "Developing Community" under the provisions of the Mississippi Development Bank Act of 1962, and the City is authorized to borrow in such amounts as it may find necessary and proper in order to provide funds for the improvement, repair and extension of the City's water, sewer and gas system; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor and City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, have determined that it is necessary and proper to repair, improve, and extend the combined water, sewer and gas system of the City which will improve, repair and extend the City's water, sewer and gas system; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor and City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, have determined that it is necessary and proper to repair, improve, and extend the combined water, sewer and gas system of the City which will improve, repair and extend the City's water, sewer and gas system; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor and City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, have determined that it is necessary and proper to repair, improve, and extend the combined water, sewer and gas system of the City which will improve, repair and extend the City's water, sewer and gas system; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor and City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, have determined that it is necessary and proper to repair, improve, and extend the combined water, sewer and gas system of the City which will improve, repair and extend the City's water, sewer and gas system; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor and City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, have determined that it is necessary and proper to repair, improve, and extend the combined water, sewer and gas system of the City which will improve, repair and extend the City's water, sewer and gas system; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor and City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, have determined that it is necessary and proper to repair, improve, and extend the combined water, sewer and gas system of the City which will improve, repair and extend the City's water, sewer and gas system; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor and City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, have determined that it is necessary and proper to repair, improve, and extend the combined water, sewer and gas system of the City which will improve, repair and extend the City's water, sewer and gas system; and

IN THE CHANCERY COURT OF HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI
DAVID M. MANASCO and CATHY MANASCO, PLAINTIFFS VERSUS
KEITH A. TINSLEY, ET AL., DEFENDANTS
SUMMONS BY PUBLICATION

To: Keith A. Tinsley, if alive, whose last known address, after diligent search and inquiry is 2828 East Street, Gulfport, FL 33707, and if deceased, the unknown heirs at law or other persons claiming an interest in and to the hereinabove described property.

You have been made a Defendant in the suit filed in the Court by Plaintiff, David M. Manasco and Cathy Manasco, seeking to enforce a promissory note and to confirm title by adverse possession of the following property:

Commencing at a point on the Blue Meadow Road at the Southeast corner of property now or formerly owned by Fernie Tate located in the Elihu Carver Claim, Township 14 South, Range 14 West, Hancock County, Mississippi, as per deed recorded in Volume 14-2, page 84, Deed Record of Hancock County, Mississippi, said point being 81.15 chains from the section line between Sections 22 and 24, said Township and Range; thence North 45.45 feet to a point; thence North 72.2 feet to a 1/2" iron pipe; thence North 50.4 feet to a 3/4" iron pipe; thence North 1 degree 40 minutes West 254.90 feet to a 1/2" iron pipe on the Southern edge of the Jordan River; thence North 85 degrees 27 minutes East 72.1 feet along said Southern edge to the Western edge of a canal; thence Southernly 287 feet, more or less, along said Western edge of said canal to a 1" iron pipe; thence South 45 degrees 45 minutes West 96.1 feet, to the point of beginning. Containing 50 acres, more or less, and being part of the Elihu Carver Claim, Township 14 South, Range 14 West, Hancock County, Mississippi.

You are required to mail or hand deliver a written response to the Complaint filed against you in this Court to Lucien M. Gay, Jr., Attorney for Plaintiff, whose post office address is P.O. Box 47, Waveland, MS 39576-0047.

YOUR RESPONSE MUST BE MAILED OR DELIVERED NOT LATER THAN THIRTY DAYS AFTER THE 3RD DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1996, WHICH IS THE DATE OF THE FIRST PUBLICATION OF THIS SUMMONS. IF YOUR RESPONSE IS NOT MAILED OR DELIVERED, A JUDGMENT BY DEFAULT WILL BE ENTERED AGAINST YOU FOR RELIEF SOUGHT IN THE COMPLAINT.

You must also file the original of your response with the Clerk of this Court within a reasonable time after the date of publication of this summons.

Issued under my hand and the seal of said Court, this 31 day of October, 1996.

Public Notice

NATIONAL AERONAUTICS AND SPACE ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE NO. 96-001
National Environmental Policy Act: Finding of No Significant Impact: Low Cost Boost Technologies Program at the John C. Stennis Space Center, AGENCY: National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

ASTON: Finding of No Significant Impact
SUMMARY: Pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, as amended (NEPA) (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.), the Council on Environmental Quality, in cooperation with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), has issued a Finding of No Significant Impact (FONSI) with respect to the proposed Low Cost Boost Technologies Program located at the Stennis Space Center, NASA is planning implementation of the program to meet requirements for future Earth-to-orbit missions at reduced cost.

DATE: Comments in response to this notice must be received in writing within 30 days of October 31, 1996. ADDRESSES: Comments should be addressed to Ronald G. Magee, NASA Environmental Officer, Code 5600, Stennis Space Center, MS 39522-6000; Telephone (601) 685-7384. The Environmental Assessment (EA) for the Low Cost Boost Technologies Program that supports this FONSI may be reviewed at: NASA Development Library, Building 1003, Stennis Space Center, MS 39522-6000, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi.

Margaret Reed Crosby Library, Piquette, MS
St. Tammany Parish Library, Slidell, LA
NASA Headquarters Information Center, Room 1122, Two Independent Square, N.W., Washington, DC

A limited number of copies of the EA are available by contacting Ronald G. Magee, NASA Environmental Officer, Code 5600, Stennis Space Center, MS 39522-6000; Telephone (601) 685-7384.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION: Ronald G. Magee, NASA Environmental Officer, Code 5600, Stennis Space Center, MS 39522-6000; Telephone (601) 685-7384.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: NASA has determined that the Environmental Assessment for the Low Cost Boost Technologies Program at SSC represents an accurate and adequate analysis of the scope and level of associated environmental impacts. The EA is incorporated by reference in this FONSI.

The mission at the Stennis Space Center is to provide propulsion support for NASA's rocket propulsion and subsystem development, acceptance testing, and certification. The implementation of the Low Cost Boost Technologies Program will provide NASA with the technology to develop new rocket boosters capable of supporting future space exploration and research. The program includes modifications to the B2 Test Position at Stennis Space Center and testing of a vertical 50,000 lb thrust engine and a horizontal 64,000 lb thrust engine using liquid oxygen and rocket propellant fuel.

The environmental impacts proposed for the program include the No Action Alternative (i.e., no modification or testing) and the implementation of the program at Marshall Space Flight Center.

The environmental impacts identified as a result of the Environmental Assessment are short term fugitive air emissions, engineering test air emissions, rocket propellant fuel transport and storage, noise, and cooling water discharges. The short term fugitive air emissions that may result from the abrasive blasting and recoating of the structural components of the B2 Test Position will be minimal. Projected air emissions of carbon monoxide, particulates, nitrogen oxides and sulfur dioxide from testing of 50,000 lb thrust engine are well below the National Ambient Air Quality Standards and will have no significant impact on the environment. Rocket propellant transport and storage will conform to federal secondary containment requirements and overfill protection devices. The use of liquid oxygen and rocket propellant fuel will result from the abrasive blasting and recoating of the structural components of the B2 Test Position will be minimal. Projected air emissions of carbon monoxide, particulates, nitrogen oxides and sulfur dioxide from testing of 50,000 lb thrust engine are well below the National Ambient Air Quality Standards and will have no significant impact on the environment. Rocket propellant transport and storage will conform to federal secondary containment requirements and overfill protection devices. 12B-THE SEA COAST ECHO-SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1996

Gulf Islands presents 'Changes in the Wilderness'

With the seasons now definitely changing on the Coast, Gulf Islands National Seashore presents "Changes in the Wilderness" during the month of November. These Sunday afternoon programs will offer a look at the creatures we may see this winter and a chance to celebrate the creation of the Horn Island Wilderness area.

Also scheduled in November is the annual Gulf Islands National Seashore Holiday Open House on Saturday, Nov. 30. All Sunday programs are one hour in length and can be seen free at the Davis Bayou Visitor Center in Ocean Springs.

Join us Sunday, Nov. 3 to Discover Dolphins! Meet in the auditorium at 2 p.m. as we talk about possibly everyone's favorite mammals of the sea. Are they as smart as humans? How do dolphins sleep underwater? Kids and adults can enjoy this one-hour look at how dolphins survive winter and summer in the Gulf of Mexico.

On Sunday, Nov. 10, Gulf Islands National Seashore celebrates the creation of the Horn and Petit Bois Island Wilderness areas. On Nov. 10, 1978, these remote and undeveloped islands were designated special wilderness areas offering unique recreational opportunities to the public.

Now some 18 years later, nearly 65,000 visitors this year will enjoy the get-away-from-it-all experience of Mississippi's wilderness barrier islands. Find out what makes Horn and Petit Bois so special as Gulf Islands presents Horn Island Adventure at 2 p.m. in the visitor center auditorium.

Also on Sunday, Nov. 20, you can discover what Gulf Coast artist Walter Anderson found so fascinating about Horn Island. As part of Sunday's wilderness celebration, The Islander will be shown all day upon request. This 30-minute program illustrates the inspiration this internationally famous artist drew from Horn Island. Produced by Mississippi ETV, the video's narration employs quotes drawn from Anderson's journals set against actual scenes of Horn Island.

Enjoy a beautiful fall day outside at Davis Bayou on Sunday, Nov. 17. We'll see it the leaves are changing colors yet during an afternoon Marsh Walk at Davis Bayou. Enjoy the sunshine as we stroll sidewalks and boardwalks in search of the fascinating creatures, critters, folklore and history waiting in a Gulf Coast salt marsh. Join the ranger beginning at 2 p.m. at the Davis Bayou Visitor Center.

With Thanksgiving coming up just a few days later, the program for Sunday, Nov. 24, is perfect for kids and adults out on a Sunday afternoon. During Sunday's Art For Kids/Nature's Bounty, kids can design a Thanksgiving table centerpiece using "nature's bounty" and their creativity. You provide the kids and we'll provide the art supplies. Everyone's welcome to join in, starting at 2 p.m. in the auditorium.

Join the staff of Gulf Islands National Seashore on Saturday, Nov. 30 for the park's Annual Holiday Open House. Visitors and park neighbors are all invited for an afternoon of exhibits, programs and refreshments. Everything kicks off with a 1 p.m. Marsh Walk, followed by music with Tom Beavers at 2 p.m. and a presentation of Marsh Treasures at 3 p.m.

The entrance to the William M. Colmer Visitor Center and Davis Bayou is located off Hwy. 90 East in Ocean Springs. For information, call (601) 875-9057.

DeChiaro featured in free concert today

Renowned guitarist Giovanni DeChiaro will perform at St. Paul Catholic Church in Pass Christian Sunday, Nov. 3 as a part of the church's Masterworks Concert Series. The 3 p.m. program is free and open to the public.

Appearing with DeChiaro will be Bay St. Louis guitarist Kerry Hanley and vocalists Judith D'Angelo, Ron Herzog and Martha Levert. The group will present favorites from Broadway and Hollywood productions, including music from Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Phantom of the Opera" and Leonard Bernstein's "Westside Story."

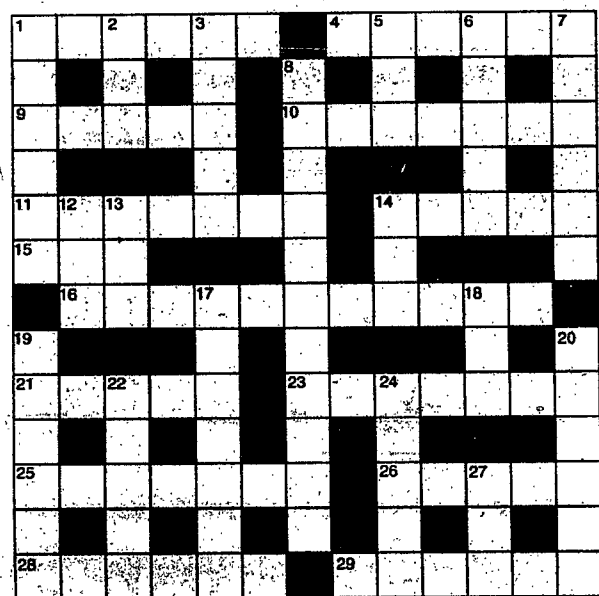

DeChiaro has long been a favorite of Coast audiences, having gained international acclaim as a classical guitarist, performing at Carnegie Hall and for Pope John Paul II in Rome.

He is a member of the music faculty at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg. Kerry Hanley has been active in Coast music circles since appearing in the original musical, "A Rose in the Moon" at the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre last November, and he plays on Friday evenings at Cafe du Soleil in Pass Christian.

Vocalist Judith D'Angelo, Ron Herzog and Martha Levert all are active members of the Coast Chorale and Gulf Coast Messiah Chorus. Levert and D'Angelo will travel to Vienna with the chorale in December.

and D'Angelo and Herzog have recently been selected by the American Choral Directors Association to perform with the National Community Honor Choir in San Diego next March. Additionally, D'Angelo performs frequently with the Gulf Coast Opera Theatre, having been a soloist in the Opera Gala presented Oct. 26 in Biloxi.

The Masterworks series was begun at St. Paul three years ago to showcase the talents of area artists while providing fine music to local audiences free of charge. Past guests have included, among others, two-time International Bach Competition winner Sean Duggan, OSB; the USM Guitar Orchestra; pianist Barbara Geary
